THE BROOKLYN SCANDAL.

The Interest in the Case Unabated.

Rumors of New Evidence Against Beecher.

Mr. Beach's Argument for the Plaintiff.

NEW YORK, June 14, 1875.

The rush for seats in the Brooklyn City Court this morning was great as ever, and every inch of standing room was occupied. Tilton and Beecher were early in attendance.

After the Court was opened Mr. Beach called attention to publications in newspapers this morning, and said before making any application to the Court, he wished to consult with his associates, and after the recess he would take whatever steps might be necessary in the matter.

A Correction.

Mr. Beach then said his friend Judge Porter had received a letter from W. O. Bartlett, in which the latter disclaimed the authorship of the article quoted in the summing up for the plaintiff, that he considered it proper to mention this fact, as he had referred to Mr. Bartlett's connection with the journal in which the article appeared.

Mr. Beach then said he had had a conversation with Mr. Porter, and that there was no difference between his brother and himself.

Mr. Porter rose, and after saying the charge of improper advances had been expressly denied, observed that he might have used too strong language in speaking on a subject so important.

Mr. Beach then resumed his address to the jury.

Mr. Beach referred to his remarks on Thursday in reference to Rev. Mr. Southard, of New Jersey, and said that a relation of the latter, a gentleman of high standing, had informed him that although a nervous effection had induced Mr. Southard to make excessive use of stimulants, the charge of licentiousness had never been brought against him. He regretted his error and took pleasure in making the correction.

Mrs. Tilton's Brother.

Mr. Beach then spoke of Mr. Richards, the brother of Mrs. Tilton, and said he was one of the most respected lay members of the largest Christian denomination in this country. He had come to this Court as a witness, and his demeanor on the stand showed him to be a most reluctant one. Appreciating the delicacy of his position, the counsel did not press for anything more than the general statement of his observations, although if he had been driven to give details, his testimony might have been more painful to himself and detrimental to the character of his sister.

Mr. Beach then read from an article by Rev. Dr. Curry, in the Christian Advocate, which sets forth that cruel and brutal attacks had been made upon Mr. Richards by the defendant's counsel.

Defending Moulton's Course.

Mr. Beach then defended A. B. Martin, one of the witnesses for the prosecution, and then referred to an allusion by the counsel for the defence to the course of Mr. Moulton in regard to Miss Proctor. He said that Moulton, by the advice of counsel, had published, not an attack of his own upon that lady, but merely a statement which Beecher had made to him in regard to her. The statement was undoubtedly actionable, and Moulton had paid the counsel fees in the matter. He then referred to allusions to the difficulty of Moulton's firm with the Government in connection with the revenue laws. Such references to the business of the witness were unworthy, but the evidence clearly showed that no dishonor attached either to Moulton or his associates.

Tilton's Relations with Mrs. Woodhull.

An undue amount of attention of the jury had been directed to the relations of the plaintiff with Mrs. Victoria Woodhull. It was falsely pretended that Mrs. Woodhull had been supplied by Tilton with information for her article upon the scandal. Putting out of sight the influences which led to Mr. Tilton's connection with Mrs. Woodhull, what was there which should induce the jury to condemn Tilton for that association? It would be an outrage to condemn this woman upon no better authority than the jeers and scoffs of the counsel.

Evarts' Astonishing Declaration.

Mr. Beach then spoke of the astonishing declaration made by Mr. Evarts that six thousand dollars of the seven thousand paid by Bowen was taken by Woodruff & Robinson to reimburse the subscriptions to the Golden Age. What atom of evidence was there upon which to base such an assertion? The books of Woodruff & Robinson had been produced, and it was clearly shown that all of the seven thousand dollars was used by Tilton for his own purposes. The statement of the learned gentleman was a bold mis-statement, made, he supposed, unconsciously. He would gladly allow the counsel for the defence to refer to any evidence that could be adduced for its support.

"Spoils," etc.

Mr. Beach said an attempt had been made to attach importance to a slip of yellow paper which bore the words: "Spoils from new friends for the enrichment of the old." He did not think it worth while to indulge in strictures to which Mr. Partridge, cashier of Woodruff & Robinson, had laid himself open by the manner in which the slip was abstracted. Mr. Tilton and Mr. Woodruff had no recollection of this paper. What did the paper mean anyway? It was obtained from Bowen, and he was certainly not a near friend of Tilton. Neither were the subscribers of the Golden Age Mr. Tilton's old friends, as compared with Bowen.

Mr. Beach said he had now answered a number of suggestions made by his friends in their argument for the defence, and would proceed with his own arguments. The jury could not have failed to observe the under which the case had been introduced to them. There was some doubt as to whether Beecher was the real defendant in this case, as the management of the defence had been conducted by Plymouth Church. An organized array of its friends had been present every day in this Court room under the lead of their gallant usher, who at one time appeared to take control of the room. [Laughter.] Every effort had in this manner been made to produce an impression upon the public and the jury. He had great respect for Plymouth Church. It was a great church, a wealthy church, having, it was said, three thousand communicants. It was the

to which the counsel for the defense would gladly refer the case. It had been referred to this jury once in the church investigation, but it was an aggressive church, and it came into this Court at first as if on a gala day, and as if Mr. Beecher, with Plymouth Church at his heels, had but to enter the Court in order to secure a verdict.

After alluding to the floral displays made by the defense early in the trial, Mr. Beach said that for a time it was almost dangerous for any one to approach this bar who was not in sympathy with Mr. Beecher. Mrs. Bradshaw, after being a witness for the plaintiff, came into Court one day and was frozen by her reception. The stately Caldwell towered over her like and Murray, the downy-cheeked Apollo of Plymouth Church, had gazed upon her with a frown like Mars. [Laughter.]

A Magnificent Ruin,

The counsel then referred to the constant attendance of Mrs. Beecher as illustrating the truth of Scott's lines, beginning: "O woman, in our hours of ease." But even believing in her husband's innocence, as he assumed she did, why did she come every day to hear testimony to her husband's infidelity? There had been an organized attempt to influence the public and jury by these outside aids. Another lady had been forced to attend through most of the trial, coming day after day to an arena where her virtue was a foot ball of contention.

Mr. Beach then said that Beecher had not denied the charge that he withdrew Mrs. Tilton from her husband when it became apparent that this case was to be investigated. Mrs. Ovington was used as an agent to place and she succeeded in her task. Mrs. Tilton gave her testimony before the church committee in Mr. Beecher's behalf, abandoned her husband's house for Mrs. Ovington's, and was brought here to appear as Mr. Beecher's supporter in the trial of this cause. All could remember the demonstrative greeting which used to pass between Mr. Beecher and Mrs. Tilton in this room. What an indecency was this! If Mr. Beecher was an innocent man he would not have needed all these exterior shows and trappings for his defense. He did not object to a natural show of sympathy by the friends of an accused person, but he did desire that a prearranged display of his character should be kept within the bounds of propriety.

Mrs. Tilton Under Mr. Beecher's Influence,

Equality Before the Law.

Mr. Beach then urged that the law was no respecter of persons, and that under it all should be viewed alike when standing in the light of the same evidence. The feelings of the jury must often have been moved by the sight merely of Mr. Beecher in this Court room, and must have been stirred to sympathy by his appeals to heaven upon the stand. But such feelings, such sympathies were not justice, and were not law.

The counsel then dwelt on the majestic reign of the law of nature and of the evils which resulted from all its violations. So it was with the law of society. If the jury violated it in this case pernicious results would eventually follow. They would set a precedent which would tend to demoralize society and lead to injustice, wrong and suffering in the future. If there was any truth in nature and religion, it was this, that every violation of law was followed by punishing consequences. The jury had nothing to do with all these outside influences, but were to decide the case according to their oaths and upon the evidence to which their attention would be invited.

Tilton's Alleged Brutality.

Mr. Beach then referred to the accusations of brutality against Tilton, and asked where this cruel husband, whose wife had abandoned him, with at least no new cause of offence, had ever manifested any disposition to attack that wife or to seek any of those extraneous aids for his case. He did not come here surrounded by troops of friends, but to uphold justice in the simple integrity of his manhood until the jury condemned him to the disgrace which Henry Ward Beecher and his counsel had fastened upon his name. Theodore Tilton would never falter in his course.

As the hour of recess had arrived, Mr. Beach suspended his address. Mr. Evarts rose, and said that Mr. Beach, by referring to a passage in the testimony, would see that Beecher had denied his alleged conversation with Moulton in regard to Mrs. Tilton's abandonment of her husband.

Mr. Beach looked at the book handed him by Mr. Evarts, and acknowledged he had been mistaken. The Court then adjourned until two o'clock. As Mr. Beach left the room he was cheered by a crowd outside. Ex-Attorney General Williams was on the bench during the morning.

After the recess Mr. Beach resumed his address to the jury, although many persons had expected that he would first apply for a reopening of the case on the ground of newly discovered evidence. Mr. Morris, when spoken to on the subject at the recess, declined to say whether the counsel for the plaintiff intended to take any action of this character.

Going Into Beecher's Character.

Mr. Beach said it was obvious that a just legal result would not be reached if he was precluded from speaking of Mr. Beecher as he appeared in the light of the evidence and if the jury were governed by sentimental consideration instead of by evidence. Nor could they in this way reach the verdict which the world would pronounce. He did not know by what process the counsel for the defence reached their conclusion that the previous life of Mr. Beecher had been spotless. As the Court would doubtless instruct the jury that the counsel for the plaintiff, if they had had their hands full of evidence that Mr. Beecher had led a licentious life, would have had no right to present any which was not interwoven in this case. True, they might have questioned Beecher himself, but even then the question might arise whether he was obliged to give evidence which might tend to his own infamy. A high legal authority in a late trial in England, in which the Prince of Wales was involved, had ruled that he was not obliged to answer, whether or not he had been guilty of adultery.

A Strange Point.

One of the strangest points in this case, and one upon which the counsel for the defence had founded one of their strongest appeals to the jury, was the fact that both the alleged adulterer and accusing husband had ascribed to the implicated wife a character of exalted purity and piety. There was no reason to doubt the sincerity of either, but we must judge both according to their character. Mr. Beecher undoubtedly regarded Mrs. Tilton as a religious enthusiast, and he had reason to believe her so. Mr. Tilton took the view that the idolatory of Mr. Beecher to which this enthusiasm led her involved on her part a belief that what he taught her could not be wrong. He (Mr. Beach) did not understand this idea, looking at it like a man of ordinary common sense, but both Mr. Beecher and Mr. Tilton knew Mrs. Tilton better than he did and understood her religious temperament.

Quotations from Mrs. Tilton's Letters.

The counsel read one of Mrs. Tilton's letters to her husband, in which she declared that she had given her husband a true account of Beecher's visits, and spoke of the trinity formed by the three, her husband, Beecher and herself. Here, he said, we saw her idea of a community between herself and these two men. In another letter she says, referring to her husband and Beecher: "Oh! how my heart yearns over you two men, and hope you will become reconciled to one another." And in another part, speaking of Beecher, she says: "I do love him very dearly." It was a dangerous position for a woman to be placed in when she could identify another man with her husband and believe in a unified trinity. In December 26, 1868, she says: "My dear, I have been thinking of my love for Beecher. Since I knew him it was like the birth of a new babe—a new fountain open." There was in this woman's heart at that time some misgivings in regard to her affection toward Beecher. Here was written on the 20th of February, 1868, in which she says: "I cannot wish you home, for I am persuaded that you are happier where you are; and though I am longing for your presence, I would not wish you home, and I am haunted with the idea that your dear head will soon be bowed with agony;" and this was after years of womanly ministrations to Beecher, he pressing his designs on her chastity, and she with her womanly instinct resisting in the agony of prayer. Was it surprising that with a man of his temperament and passion that these people fell, or that Mrs. Tilton should attribute this fall to her spirit of self-sacrifice? A woman does not fall from passion, but from her love and what self sacrifice demanded, and she saw nothing but beauty in it. It was no more unnatural to suppose that this woman would lie for Mr. Beecher than that she would leave her home for him.

A Comparison with the Sickles Case.

The jury might remember General Sickles, who shot the adulterer whom he caught with his wife, and was tried and acquitted. The Government afterwards honored him by placing him in an honorable position. General Sickles took his wife back and condoned the offence, but the world knew and he knew that there were mitigating circumstances in her case.

Beecher's Explanation.

The counsel could not tell how Mrs. Tilton was overcome, but Mr. Beecher, in one of his sermons, says: "The adulterer confuses her judgment, misleads the conscience, and deliberately and heartlessly damns the confiding victim." This was the manner in which Beecher alone could describe it. Says the Scriptures, "There are four things passing my comprehension—the way of an eagle in the air, the way of a serpent upon a rock, the way of a ship on the sea, and the ways of a minister with a maiden. [Laughter.]

The Question at Issue

in this case was whether the influence of this great church and its minister would overcome truth and the issues of justice. On behalf of Henry Ward Beecher an appeal was made to our sympathies and judgment, and it was hard to judge such a man. It was hard to condemn such a man; but the question is whether law and justice shall prevail over the influence of Henry Ward Beecher and his supporters. The jury knew before they were empanneled the efforts that were made on behalf of the innocence of Henry Ward Beecher by the community, but some circumstances had arisen which had since changed the face of affairs, and their verdict had already been anticipated by the world. The jury were to consider whether this case would be determined by these rules and regulations given to us by the law for our wisdom and guidance. The counsel's learned friends had endeavored to fix upon Tilton the blame of bringing out these stories and charges of blackmail against Tilton and Moulton.

The First Event in the Case

was the publication of the Woodhull card in May, 1871. Mr. Tilton certainly had nothing to do with the publishing of this card, and the other side concede this, as he had not been introduced to Mrs. Woodhull until subsequent to this. Then there was the church difficulty, this uneasy feeling on the part of the members of the Plymouth church, which was continually bubbling and rising, and then settling down again from the year 1871 down.

The counsel then referred to West's testimony as to the appointment of a committee to wait upon Tilton and confer with him about his withdrawal from the church. Mr. Beecher was appointed a committee of one to wait upon Tilton, which he did, and reported that it was better for the church to take no action in the matter. This, said counsel, was in the year 1872.

The Court here adjourned.

Sensation Stories.

The Herald claims to have discovered the druggist who sold Mr. Beecher the poison which Moulton mentioned in his testimony, and reproduces the entry from his books, of the charge to Beecher on May 13, 1871—one ounce of prussic acid, fifty cents.

Recent rumors of new evidence against Beecher arose from the following facts: A few days ago, after the close of the testimony in the trial, Mr. Morris was informed that Mr. Looder, an upholsterer, doing business at 902 Fulton avenue, Brooklyn, would have been an important witness. The story was that years before Mr. Looder went into business for himself, he had a job in the upholstery at Tilton's residence. He was in the hallway of the house when Beecher entered, and was greeted by Mrs. Tilton. Mr. Beecher lifted Mrs. Tilton in his arms, kissed her paroxysmally and carried her into the parlor. Later, either intentionally or accidentally, he went into the parlor, unannounced, to get a tool that he had left there and saw Mrs. Tilton and Beecher in an equivocal attitude. He kept the latter sight secret until the scandal broke out, when he related it in confidence to several friends, but he spoke about the kissing in the hall to the servants, and they replied that it was not an uncommon occurrence. Tilton's counsel sent for Looder, but they could get no information from him. He declared that his business would be ruined should he be made a witness against Beecher, and the lawyers, after considering the improbability of being able to force him to testify, and the difficulty of having the case re-opened for testimony, did nothing publicly with the information. Looder has since been questioned by reporters, but to all he declares that he has nothing to say.

Beecher Interviewed.

Mr. Beecher told a reporter to-day that he was entirely ignorant of such things as related in the New York Herald. They never occurred in his experience at all, and in so far as the article referred to him, it was already denied by his oath and was wholly untrue. The present proprietors of the drug store where Mr. Beecher is said to have purchased the poison say the story is highly improbable. They do not believe a druggist in the world would sell prussic acid to any person without a prescription from a reliable physician. A dispatch from Whitestone, L. I., says Mr. Leys, the druggist, does not now believe that Beecher made any explanation why he wanted the acid, or that he made any inquiry what effect it would have. He did not think it strange a clergyman should want an ounce of deadly poison. The page on the ledger is all in one handwriting, very fresh and clean looking, and also with the sale of the acid there are fifteen other articles entered, showing it was purchased among things wanted for family use.

Mr. Tilton's lawyers decided to take no action concerning the alleged new evidence.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, June 14, 1875.

Popularity of Our Bonds in Europe.

It is expected that the London Syndicate will early next month make another call on the Treasury Department for an additional number of new United States bonds, the money market being favorable to such investments.

The Raid on "Crooked" Whisky Distillers.

The Treasury Department is confident that the proofs already obtained are sufficient to convict all "crooked" whisky distillers. The action of the Government officers entrusted with the prosecution of alleged offenders is entirely satisfactory to the Department. Indictments have already been found against some distillers in the West. The trials will necessarily be delayed by the adjournment of the courts, but in the meantime the Government will fully prepare itself to make the prosecutions effective.

A Noted Desperado Killed.

CINCINNATI, June 14.—Tom McGehan, a notorious desperado, made famous by the tragic end of his counsel, Hon. C. L. Vallandigham, who lost his life in explaining some points on the trial of McGehan for the murder of a man named Meyers, was assassinated in his saloon, on Basin street, Hamilton, Ohio, at 11 o'clock last night. A constable hearing the shot fired, ran to the saloon, and found McGehan lying dead in a pool of blood. From the appearance of the room and position of the body, the supposition is that some one entered the saloon, called for a drink, and while McGehan was serving the customer, he was shot by some one through a window that looks into an alley. On the west side of the house a spring wagon had been backed against this window, and the assassin undoubtedly stood upon it when he fired, as a pane of glass was shattered into a thousand fragments. Although shot with several bullets in the right temple and side of the face, McGehan had strength enough to get his revolver to defend himself, but fell dead on reaching the end of the counter.

Lynch Law in Maryland.

ANNAPOLIS, June 14.—The principal residents of Anne Arundel county, in which the outrage upon Miss Jackson was committed by a negro named Simms, came into this city early this morning, and proceeding to the jail, searched the jailor and found the keys. They then went to the cell of the negro Simms, and finding him chained, dragged him away without releasing him from his irons, and taking him a short distance from the city near the railroad track hung him to a tree, where he now hangs. A large number of citizens visited the place to-day. The mob was well provided with pick axes, crow bars and other instruments for gaining admission to the jail, had they met forcible resistance. The negro did not say a word when taken away.

THE RAILROAD WAR ABOUT OVER.

Conference Between the Officers of the Contending Lines—Satisfactory Arrangement Probable.

A protracted conference took place Friday last at the Fifth avenue Hotel, New York, between Col. Thomas A. Scott, President; Mr. A. J. Cassatt, Second Vice President, and Assistant President Green, of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, and Mr. John King, Jr., Vice President of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. The parties met at 10 in the morning in Mr. King's rooms, and the session lasted until 7 in the evening, the matters under discussion being the differences between the two roads. No other persons than those above mentioned were present, although it had been rumored that Mr. H. J. Jewett, President of the Erie Railroad, had been requested to act as arbitrator. At a late hour, Vice President King gave the following statement to the press:

"Executive officers of the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania Railroad Companies have been in session in New York to-day discussing the points of difference, actual or supposed, between their respective companies. The meeting has been most harmonious, and a basis for a permanent arrangement between the companies will be submitted to their respective Boards of Directors within the next ten days."

Mr. King said that they had decided, out of courtesy, not to communicate anything further in regard to the results of the conference until after the Directors of the companies had taken action in the matter. As to what their action would be he could not, he said, state what twenty or thirty men would decide upon, but he had no hesitation in saying that he thought they would approve of the arrangement proposed by himself and the gentlemen representing the Pennsylvania Railroad. It was understood that after the conference Col. Scott called upon Commodore Vanderbilt, President of the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad.

MONTEREY.

Additional Particulars of the Oil Fire—Narrow Escape of Families.

MONTEREY, Pa., June 14.—In the vicinity of the tank of oil that was burned on Saturday were two others, also filled, but they did not ignite. About five o'clock the sheets of the tank fell down to within three feet of the bottom. The deluge of burning liquid came rushing down the hill in torrents, breaking away a dam that had been prepared below, coming upon the railroad with such force as to pass over and against a planing mill, the flames lapping the siding of the building for eight feet above the ground, and in an instant the mill was wrapped in flames. It was impossible to get within sixty feet of it. The excitement can better be imagined than described. Families residing in adjoining buildings were fleeing for their lives, while their houses and all their household goods were food for the devouring element. The oil rack of the United Pipe Line was soon burned, and in addition to the private dwellings, the telegraph office of the United Pipe Line was destroyed, and all telegraph communication was cut off on either side. Luckily the depot was saved, being some distance from the burning district. All the lumber in the yard about the mill was destroyed. A large stock of sash, blinds and doors had been received but a few days before, which were also destroyed. Messrs. Corbett & Co. were proprietors of the mill. Their loss amounts to at least $10,000, and their insurance is very light. The members of the firm were away from home, but arrived just before the tank fell in, and were ascending the hill below the tank when the burning oil came rushing down. They ran, and barely escaped with their lives, the river of burning oil coming within a few feet of them. A number of others had a similar experience.

THE MINERS' WAR.

An Attempt to Blow Up a House Frustrated—Intimidation Near Wilkesbarre—Thirty-two Strikers Convicted of Conspiracy and Riot.

WILKESBARRE, PA., June 14.—On Saturday night two kegs of powder and a lighted fuse were thrown through the window of James Curry's house in Kingston. One of his boarders was awakened by the noise and extinguished the fuse before the fire had reached the powder. Curry has been working at Paine's breaker against the orders of the miners' association and summary vengeance was thus attempted upon him.

This morning about twenty men went to Waterman & Beaver's mines, for the purpose of going to work, but were met by a large crowd of strikers, who threatened them and forced them to go home. No correct opinion as to when the men will go to work can be given.

CLEARFIELD, PA., June 14.—The Clearfield strikers, thirty-two in all, were convicted this afternoon of conspiracy and riot in this county, and will be sentenced tomorrow. John Siney and Kingo Parks were held in $5,000 each for trial in the September court.

A $250,000 Fire.

TORONTO, ONT., June 13.—The steam mills of Edwards & Co., on the Ottawa river, were destroyed by fire this evening, together with eight dwelling houses, stables, and 6,000,000 feet of lumber. The property belonged to W. C. Edwards & Co., whose loss is estimated at $250,000; insurance $80,000.

ITINERANT TINKERS.

Arrest of Suspicious Persons.

Yesterday officer Chas. Stoerr arrested A. Feskin and Jno. Breen as suspicious characters. In their possession was found two soldering irons, two tinner's shears and a lot of soldering material. The latter they were trying to sell, and the officer saw them taking a quantity of it from a hiding place on the Allegheny wharf, near the railroad bridge. A man who had bought some of the material, said they had sold him three pounds for a quarter when the market price is twenty-eight cents a pound. The prisoners claim to be itinerant tinkers and said they were about to make a tour of the agricultural districts in search of work. They gave the names of a number of men for whom they had been working, and the officer, while endeavoring to ascertain the truth of their statements by inquiries at the places designated, learned that a few nights ago a tin store on Federal street, Allegheny, above North Diamond street, was robbed. The men are yet in gaol and an information will likely be made against them this morning, as they are suspected of having committed the Allegheny robbery. These men are only two of four who were seen together, and an effort will be made to arrest the others.

Upset.

Last evening about seven o'clock a barouche occupied by a gentleman and two ladies was accidentally upset at the corner of Ohio and Chestnut streets, Allegheny, by the breaking of an axle, and the occupants thrown out. They were assisted into Walter's drug store and Dr. Easton summoned, who found that they were more frightened than hurt, as they had only received a few bruises.

KING, REED & CO.

TUESDAY, JUNE 15, 1875.

BONDS at Frankfort 99½.

PETROLEUM at Antwerp 26½.

GOLD closed in New York yesterday at 116⅜@116½.

WE are under obligations to Hon. Henry M. Long for copies of the report of the Commissioners to investigate the bituminous coal mines of the State, and second annual report of the Bureau of Statistics of this State,—both valuable documents.

THE declaration is editorially made by the Philadelphia Press that the hotel charges during the Centennial season will not be advanced more than ten per cent. over present rates. If such is the fact, it will meet with popular approbation. At Vienna, the charges became excessive, and the result was, a heavy falling off in attendance, and a partial failure of the enterprise.

IT seems to be the policy of the Tilton party to publish, just as the trial is closing, all sorts of statements, evidently intended to prejudice the jury against Beecher and in favor of Tilton. Two stories, neither of which was divulged on trial, have been published, and yet the witnesses were available, and could easily have been brought into Court. It is as flimsy as contemptible,—this method of prejudicing a jury.

WE are much gratified at the resolution expressed by Mayor McCarthy to promptly arrest the pugilists, thieves and bummers who have indicated a purpose to make this city the base of their operations toward a prize fight. Pittsburgh has suffered enough in the past from this class of depredations, and we hope the Mayor will so rigidly punish persons of the class referred to as to effectually teach them that Pittsburgh does not propose to be troubled with their presence.

THE work of reform, in the Treasury Department, is far from being regarded as completed, the Customs department now being under special consideration. Just what reforms are to be inaugurated is not yet disclosed, but enough is known for it to be understood that they are of a very important character. Commissioner Johnson has gone to New York to give effect to the views of the Secretary of the Treasury. The New York Custom House affords ample opportunity for reformatory measures, and we hope that thorough work will be done there.

THE work of forming combinations, looking up the strength of candidates, arranging for contests, and all and singular that is usually preliminary to a series of political Conventions, in which much popular interest is felt, was quite a feature of yesterday. The several Conventions that meet to-day will have an important work to perform, but, excepting that for Shrievalty, it will be accomplished without serious excitement. We do not see occasion to specially change our estimate of results, as given in our issue of yesterday. We simply renew the expression of hope and desire that when the Conventions have completed their work, it may be such as will command the united approval of the party.

THE difficulties in the Pottsville mining regions continue, and affairs are, if possible, in a more unsatisfactory condition than they have been heretofore. On Saturday two men were shot while returning from work, and both mortally wounded. This will have the effect of restoring a reign of terror, and keeping thus, those who were disposed to work, from accepting the terms offered. The operators continue firm, and Mr. Gowan, very unwisely we think, refused to even enter into consultation with the miners' committee. The feeling is such that all compromise is refused, and the affair stands on the basis of the offer of the companies on the one hand, and the demands of the men on the other. There are no indications as to which will yield.

THERE seem to be some peculiarities attending the case of our virtuous friend, Bill King, of Minneapolis. He has been admitted to bail in $5,000 for appearance for trial of the charge against him, and urged that a day for the trial be set, all of which the United States District Attorney opposed. This gives a kind of moral triumph to William. The sum set for bail is so small that it indicates but a light estimate of his crime, or else that the Government has many doubts of convicting him. And the disinclination of the District Attorney to proceed with the trial strengthens this view. Probably he desires the trial when Congress is in session, so as to have witnesses at hand, and yet our belief is that William can refuse to be tried while engaged in the duties of Congressman.

THAT new political creation, "the independent voter," must be a very remarkable being, if he implicitly follows the teaching of his self constituted organ, the New York Tribune. It recently, in a leading editorial, argued, with due gravity, the following propositions: 1. The political outlook is clear and easily understood. 2. The Democrats will quite certainly elect the next President. 3. The Republicans will probably elect the next President. And 4. The next Presidential election is "anybody's race." The "independent voter" is defined as possessed of a love of pure truth, and incapable of being deceived. Yet it treats him as one who can easily be imposed upon by flashy words, and led astray by glittering generalities. If the Tribune is really driving at anything, other than to utter a few absurdities, it will do well to imitate the course of its founder, Greeley, first ascertain exactly what it wants, and then be clear and outspoken in its statements. At the present, it is simply absurd and trashy.

A QUESTION has been started, apropos of the Centennial Exposition, that seems to greatly trouble several journals. The Kidderminster carpet-makers, and other English manufacturers, have started the idea that they will not exhibit unless permitted to state what the price of their goods would be, were it not for the tariff. The Philadelphia papers seem alarmed at the idea, and the steady-going Evening Post, of New York, imagines it has a point finely made. What would be equivalent to this,—a statement of the price in England, and, also, if they wish, the price in America, duty added, need not be seriously objected to. It is not secret, the price of carpets in England, or the amount of duty levied on them. All this is familiar to the American people. And if the English should desire to turn their part of the Exposition into a crusade against the laws of this country,—and this is the gist of the idea,—we do not see that their discourtesy is at all to be dreaded. We will have American carpets and other manufactures on exhibition, which could not have been developed under free trade auspices. If political labelings are to be put on goods, we venture that those of American manufacture can be so arranged as to meet anything that can be offered on the other side. So this scare crow need not be seriously regarded, as it has no power to hurt.

WE recur once more,—on the principle of line upon line, and precept upon precept,—to the view so persistently advanced by free trade journals, that the rates of tariff and the tax on whisky should be reduced because of smuggling and evasions. The argument is presented that the high charges furnish temptation to smugglers and distillers. We admit it. But can any tariff or tax be prescribed that will not tempt them? And is the Government to conform its laws to the easy virtue of the classes referred to? If so, the first consideration when a law looking to the creation of revenue is being prepared, is to know just how the vicious classes will regard it. The true policy of the Government, we insist, is the rigid punishment of its officials who corruptly permit the laws to be violated. This is the policy pursued in England, and the result is, the rigid enforcement of law, and no scandals, such as we have so frequently in this country. Once the fact is established that law will be enforced, and there will be no farther trouble. Those who violate the revenue and tariff laws are shrewd, intelligent men, who commit their misdeeds, with a full knowledge of the law and its penalties. With them the question simply is whether the chance of profit warrants the risk they assume. We do not know the exact amount that is regarded as essential to the risk of violating the revenue laws, but the risk is evidently taken quite freely, on the evident presumption that no danger will attend it. This is the root of the trouble.

EDUCATIONAL ECONOMY.

We do not accept all the utterances of President Elliott, of Harvard College, as the wisest and best that can be uttered, yet he has the faculty of selecting practical and sensible topics, when he writes on educational subjects. His recent essay on the observance of economy in schools, is particularly pertinent, in view of the times, and the necessity for reducing the outlays on public objects, where this may be safely done. The aim of the essay, however, is to point out where limitation of expenses should not be sought. He thinks that large school buildings should not be erected,—as they serve to make more likely the spread of contagious diseases, to make more probable the association and evil influence of ill-disposed and depraved children; and, an effect of a different character entirely, the keeping a lot of children together in this way to be subjected to the same training tends strongly to turn them out all of the same mould. It destroys individuality. The same is an effect of the enlargement of classes to such an extent that the teacher cannot know each scholar and offer the especially needed sort of help and instruction to each. To forget the value of individuality is to forget the spring of human progress. An almost inconsiderable number of men have led the world, their fellows following with little question. One estimate has it that there have not been two hundred and fifty great men since the world began; and Galton now estimates that in England, of men of any particular age, not more than one in ten thousand knows enough to be called "scientific." We thus infer, he would have smaller buildings and more of them,—thus increasing the expense in this direction.

The salaries of teachers, he further claims, should not be reduced, as their success depends upon freedom from care, and perfect contentment in their situation. The present difficulty with American teachers is, that they are not disposed, owing to the smallness of compensation, to regard their occupation as permanent. He would, therefore, have this item increased, rather than lessened. He would also have their number increased, in order that they may not have overgrown classes, or disregard the individuality of the children. His principal effort toward economy would be to limit free education to a few rudimentary branches, and make all above these to be subject to charge. Where parents are poor and yet desire their children to receive advanced education, he would have a system of scholarships, and provide for these by taxation. Thus he would limit free education, and enlarge the bounds of private, or parent-paid tuition.

The response might readily be made to all this that it would not actually limit the expense of education, but would distribute it differently. The objection to it all consists in the fact that it would be a back-step, a limiting of the scope of free education. The root question in the entire issue is that which he raises at the out-set, whether we should impair the efficiency of the public schools by unwise attempts at economy. If we have no more teachers than we need, and they are paid no more than they should have,—we have touched the main items of expense in the direct management of our schools. The question as to the size of buildings relates to an entirely different department,—that of provision for the building of schools. As the schools of this city are graded, we do not see that the children suffer any inconveniences that they might not in a smaller building.

The policy of this country looks to the even, uniform, and advanced education of all her children; and we have only to properly understand this policy to clearly see that it is best for all. The great object of an evenly-diffused education is to promote intelligence among the children, irrespective of the financial condition of their parents. The intelligence of the people is the safety of the State, is the theory on which our Government is conducted. This idea necessitates free education, as when the amount of training children shall have is made to depend on the payment of school bills, it is apt to be limited. We would readily sustain anything that might look to the enhancement of educational facilities, and at the same time lessen the expense. But when the proposition is to reduce the facilities as a means of limiting outlay, we most decidedly object. The truth is, the people pay school taxes more readily than any others. They realize the advantages which flow from our school system; and hence, however, elaborate the buildings erected, so they do not indicate useless extravagance, the sum is cheerfully paid. If we can have all that we now possess at reduced expense, well. But if to have a limitation of outlay, we must have diminished facilities and advantages, it is not so well. The people, if we understand them, prefer the increase of facilities, even if attended with increased expense, to reduced facilities, with the outlay cut down. Thus while Professor Elliott may have generally good ideas on educational topics, we do not accord with his latest utterances relative to the reduced expense of our Public Schools.

IN the United States Court now in session at Fargo, D. T., before Judge Barnes, four men have been convicted of stealing Government grain from Fort Lincoln, opposite Bismarck, the past Winter. Large amounts have been stolen from there the past year, and also Government mules, and several other indictments for this are still pending. Among those convicted is Henry Gager, who has been for several years a contractor in Minnesota and Dakota, and who has been a ringleader in recent depredations. Two other indictments are pending against him for running off soldiers who were witnesses. General Sanborn, of St. Paul, appears as attorney for most of the accused parties, with home counsel, and the prosecution is conducted by United States Attorney Pound, of Yankton.

THE survivors of the Vicksburg disaster, who reached St. Johns, N. F., on Saturdap, report that six boats were lowered from the Vicksburg. Two capsized alongside, one was lost two hours after leaving the vessel, and one, their own, was picked up. One of the two boats is unaccounted for, which was, no doubt, that containing the five men who arrived at New York. The Captain and officers are said to have behaved well, but the seamen acted badly. The Captain and women went down with the vessel. Another vessel has sailed to search for the missing boat.

Its Beautiful Farm Lands—Climbing a Mountain by Rail—The Mining Districts—Evidences of Misplaced Enterprise—The War Among the Miners—Some Profitable Mines—Resuscitated "Central City"—Gold in Solid Chunks—A Breezy Letter from the Far West.

[Next to a trip to the invigorating climate, and among the delightful scenery of Colorado, is an account of it, sufficiently vivid in description to enable us to realize its peculiarities and charms. Such a realistic description we produce herewith. It is a private letter written with the familiar ease that characterizes the best of such correspondence; but yet it is so well adapted for publication that we have asked the privilege of giving it to our readers. We commend it to the earnest attention of those who are interested to know of the region referred to.—EDS. GAZETTE.]

When I wrote you a couple of days ago I had just returned to Denver from a trip of several days and was too busy to write more than a few lines.

Riding on a Rail.

My trip was a delightful one. I left here at 8:15 last Tuesday morning on the Colorado Central Railroad. This road runs westward, on a guage of 4.8½ feet, some 15 miles across the plains, the country on both sides being fine agricultural land in a good state of cultivation—all of it irrigated by water conveyed from the mountain by ditches.

In about an hour we reached Golden City, at the base of the Rocky Mountains—a handsome little town of some 1,500 people, built almost entirely of brick or stone. There is here an excellent water power, driving several flour mills and other manufactories. A large manufactory of fire brick here makes nearly all of those useful articles needed in the territory. The public school house and two denominational institutions with imposing edifices are located in the suburbs, giving quite a finished appearance to the little city.

Here we change from broad guage to narrow, (i. e. 3 feet). The cars are in all respects as comfortable and handsome as the larger ones, only necessarily narrower. The seats are arranged from front to middle of the car—two on the port and one on the starboard of the aisle, and from the middle to the rear one on the port and two on starboard side, thus giving each individual as much room as he would have on a wider car and at the same time keeping the car balanced. Bishop Spaulding and wife were in company with several clergy en route to a convocation at Central City. I had been talking with Mrs. Spaulding nearly all the way from Denver. She is a pleasant, vivacious and agreeable person, and I was quite sorry that we were obliged here to take different trains.

Very soon after leaving Golden the train runs into the canon of Clear creek, following its course closely, the grade is very steep and the line of road is a continuous series of compound curves of the shortest conceivable radii, with scarcely a tangent 500 yards long in its entire length. For miles this canon (pronounced canyon) is less than 1000 feet wide, while its sides are some 2000 feet high, always very steep and frequently almost perpendicular. The stream runs with great rapidity, making frequent jumps of twenty to fifty feet, forming beautiful cascades and is in no place free from froth and foam, for its bed is filled with rocks from the size of a wheelbarrow to that of a Conestoga wagon, which have been hurled by some convulsion of nature from some of the neighboring heights. The upheaval has been such that the stratification is nearly perpendicular, so that frequently the summit of a precipice bears a close resemblance to a castle, such as one sees in Wales, or along the Rhine.

Prebbles by the Wayside.

Two remarkable isolated rocks, large enough on top to build the Monongahela House upon, seem to have been shoved perpendicularly a thousand feet into the air above the surrounding rocks, looking very much like Lilienstein and Koenigstein on the river Elbe, near Dresden—in fact there is quite a similarity in the general rock formation to that of Saxon, Switzerland, (so called) as I remember it, except that there the Elbe valley is many times wider than is this canon. So narrow is it, and so sharp the curves, that riding as I was on the rear platform of the last car, it seemed fully half the time as if it must be impossible that I ever could have gotten there by rail, so completely did we appear to be walled in on every side. On leaning forward I could generally not see the locomotive, and frequently could not see the next car, so sharp and close were the turns and so close did we run to the perpendicular wall of rocks. At numerous points along the route small sign boards have been erected, upon which are painted "The Great Spirit," "The Mule," "The Sentinels," or some such inscription. These indicate to the traveler that by looking up he will see some grotesque rock formation that resembles—sometimes quite closely—sometimes very little, a mule, a giraffe, or whatever the sign suggests. Several miles up, at a point called Beaver Brook, the canon splits; we followed the one to the left, our friends in the other train taking that to the right. From this point up, the prevailing characteristics of scenery are the same; but the valley is not quite so narrow and the walls are not so perpendicular, still the scenery is grand and lovely beyond almost any I have seen between Switzerland and the Sierra Nevadas.

About 11 A. M. we reached the present terminus of the railroad, an insignificant village named Floyd's Hill, where we transferred ourselves to stage coaches of precisely the pattern of the one in which I crossed the Allegheny Mountains before we had the Pennsyvania R. R. The coach and harness, and for aught I know the horses and drivers had all once formed part of the line from the Missouri river to California, and had "Wells, Fargo & Co.'s Overland Express" inscribed on several parts of the "outfit." By the way, nearly everything hearabouts is an outfit. A rocky mountaineer, speaking of a church, its congregation and priest, would call it an outfit, just as he would a party of hunters with camp and garrison equipage, or a den of gamblers, or a choir of angels. I luckily got a seat beside the driver, and on the roof just behind us were two of the oldest inhabitants, so that I was well supplied with targets for the numerous questions I fired off as we moved along. About noon we reached the town of Idaho, a great resort for invalids, because of some very fine hot springs said to be specific for certain of the ills of humanity. There is a large and good hotel here, the "Beebe House," of which Mrs. Beebe, one of our fellow passengers, seemed to be Commander-in-Chief. We dined there and remounted the coach for some fifteen to twenty miles more staging.

In the Mining Districts.

All along this canon, from Floyd's Hill to Georgetown, is a constant succession of indications that we are in a mining district. The declivities on both sides are dotted all over with prospect holes of all depths, from three feet up—or rather downwards, made by men who have started with pick and shovel to hunt their fortunes, tramping over every foot of the mountains, following every indication, or what seemed an indication, of a mineral vein, sometimes finding what proved to be a rich mine, but much more often finding nothing whatever. In many cases, what appeared to be a good vein, was found, and the finder, or some one for him, has gone to the States or to Europe and organized a stock company, which has sent incompetent or dishonest men out here to develope their property. These men in very many cases instead of working the mine long enough to learn whether it was a true vein or only a pocket, or whether its ore was rich enough to pay, or too poor to work, whether it was a smelting or stamping one, have gone to work, and erected, (sometimes at enormous, and never at a small cost.) Stamp mills or smelting or reduction works, and either run short of money before the works ever got started, or have completed their works, and found that their mine produced nothing at all, or that it cost more than it was worth, or that neither their own ore nor that of any neighboring mines was of the kind their works were intended to handle. The consequence of all of this folly is that in less that three days I saw at least fifty large buildings, some of them filled with ponderous machinery that are absolutely good for nothing. They had been abandoned for years.

Along the stream there was once a great deal of gulch mining, and there is still some. At several places, I noticed water wheels driving pumps to exhaust water from shafts sunk at the edge of the stream to bed rock with drifts on that, to gather the gold that had settled down through the gravel. Sometimes there would be fans attached to the machinery for forcing fresh air down to the workmen. We passed or met many six, eight or ten mule teams drawing two heavily laden wagons. It is very general all through the West to hitch two or three wagons together like a train of cars. The team can haul them all over most places, but when a difficult spot is reached the teamster uncouples them, takes one at a time over the bad place, recouples and goes on with his train. The economy is, that one teamster is as good as two or three would be.

I arrived at about 4 P. M. at Georgetown. It lies in an oblong valley entirely surrounded by mountains, like a toy village set up in a large bath tub. It has only about three thousand inhabitants, but every man of them is as energetic and industrious as if he had received his early training and formed his habits in Pittsburgh. It is the centre of the silver mining interest in Colorado. There are several large smelting, stamping, and reduction works here, as well as planing and flouring mills, and other manufactories. A great trade is done in supplies of every kind for the mines.

In Warlike Array.

Just while I was there the whole population was in a ferment of excitement over a difficulty between the owners of the Dives & Pelican mines. A law-suit had just resulted in an order of Court for one party to surrender certain disputed property, and the Sheriff had gone out with a small army to take possession; but the other party claimed that he undertook to seize more than the decree of the Court directed, and not only refused to obey, but fired at him. This all happened on Tuesday. On Wednesday I got up early, and at 6:30 A. M., with another man who knew the country and the people, rode out to the property in dispute, some 3½ miles up the canon. On arriving there we were politely received by the superintendent of the Dives mine, who was sitting near one of the entrances, surrounded by some fifty men, all armed to the teeth, and waiting for the fun to begin. Just within the mouth of the mine was a sentinel on guard, but recognizing the guide the superintendent had given us, he allowed us to pass in. We followed the tunnel into the mountain about one hundred yards, and came on a party of miners hard at work, getting out ore. The vein—the sides of which are as distinctly visible as the wall of a house—are over three feet apart. They are of very hard rock, while the silver ore is comparatively soft. Being so thick it is of course inexpensive to get out, and as it carries some three hundred ounces of silver to the ton, it is easy to see that it has enough value to make men cling very tenaciously to their claim of ownership. Within twenty-five feet of where these men were at work, the drift made a turn. Just this side of the turn two armed men were on guard, while just around the turn two of the opposing faction were sitting similarly armed, having come into the mountain by a totally different entrance. That is how the trouble comes, the running together under ground of opposing interests.

After coming out of the mine I had a fine view of the hostile armies lying on their arms within easy rifle range, certainly more than one hundred men waiting only for a signal to begin firing. I haven,t seen anything so exciting since my soldiering days. Coming down the mountain I met two small parties of armed and mounted men going up, but I don't know which side they belonged to. Up to this time no one was hurt, but next day a prominent citizen of Denver, and one of the principal owners of the Pelican, mine was seen riding (literally) for his life from the direction of the mine, pursued by a Dives man who finally overtook him right in Georgetown, knocked him off his horse with the butt of his pistol, and then shot him dead, turned and rode off. Of course there is a tremendous excitement, a huge reward is offered, and any number of men are in pursuit, either for revenge or in hope of getting the reward.

Blasted Hopes.

Leaving this warlike neighborhood at 11 A. M., I had a delightful drive on top of the coach, behind six handsome bays, back to Idaho, where I again dined, and then transferred myself to a four-horse coach of a different shape, being modeled after a Pennsylvania milk cart, and drove across the mountain to Central City, passing en route through the once famous mining districts of Russel's Gulch. I do not believe I saw less than five thousand holes in the ground on this ride, of greater or less depth, all dug by seekers for wealth in the gulch. The whole surface of the earth seemed literally washed off, not to the same extent that I have seen in some parts of California, but much more than I have ever seen anywhere else. This gulch was, as usual, sprinkled thickly with abandoned mills. One very large one I noticed especially, built of stone, with walls over two feet thick, just ready for the roof, but money ran short at the top of the walls, and the chances are, it may wait for the roof now till doomsday. This climate resembles that of Italy with regard to its effect on stones and buildings. You cannot tell by looking at the broken stone at the mouth of a mine, or at a wall, whether the workmen have left it only an hour ago or five years. No moss gathers—no discoloration of any kind to suggest the lapse of time. When I first saw St. Peter's, at Rome, I was particularly struck by the newness of its appearance, as contrasted with some buildings in England and Ireland of a much later period, and I have never been in any other place where the weather seemed to produce so little change until I came here.

Central City, where I arrived about 3½ o'clock, was nearly all "Chicagoed" just 364 days before I saw it, but with the wonderful vitality that seems to characterize Colorado towns it has been almost entirely rebuilt. Every house is either brick or stone, none other being permitted by law now, and a reservoir of water has been established with water pipes throughout all the streets and fire plugs at frequent intervals, so that it is fully 200 per cent. better in every respect than it was a year ago.

It is an odd sort of a place, built on the steep side-hils on both sides of the canon. I don't believe there are 100 feet of level ground on any street in the whole place. The principal business of Central seems to be that of selling merchandise, but just below Central, and just as much part of it as Bayardstown is a part of Pittsburgh, is the town of Black Hawk, which is literally crowded with smelting and separating works and stamp mills. The hills on all sides are full of good mines, from which, as well as from a greater distance, these mills are continually supplied. One or two of the mills have sunk shafts right under their own roofs and found paying mines. In Black Hawk are located the great smelting and separating works of Prof Hill. They employ a capital of more than $1,000,000, cover an immense area of ground, have branch reduction works in every considerale mining district in the Territory and are reported to be making money very rapidly. I was invited by Mr. Walcott, the manager, (to whom I was presented in Central) to visit the works. I accepted the invitation very promptly. We drove to the works where I was introduced to Mr. Pierce, formerly connected with the world-renowned smelting works, at Swansea, Wales, and now chemist in charge here, and by him taken all through the works and shown all the various processes resorted to in squeezing the silver and gold out of the ore. At this works no attempt is made to save the lead which is, in some of the ores, very abundant, while some works like those of the Penna. Lead Company, at Pittsburgh, have a process that enables them to save it all. Which process is the better is a conundrum that I can't answer.

Down in a Gold Mine.

Through the kindness of Mr. Walcott I was afforded the opportunity of going into the tunnel running into the Robtail mine, one of the largest and most productive gold mines in the Territory. The tunnel is about five and a half feet wide by six feet high, runs directly from one of the streets in Black Hawk, more than four hundred yards into the mountain, rising as you go in just enough to drain the mine nicely; at numerous points along the tunnel lateral drifts are run off on various veins belonging to, and I think, worked by different owners, all working harmoniously through the same exit. There are enough air shafts running perpendicularly to the surface to make capital ventilation. From the level of the tunnel some veins are worked upwards and some downwards. Right under one of the air shafts, a quarter of a mile from daylight, we found a steam engine in full blast, pumping water out of the deep mines. I went down to the very bottom of one of the deepest mines, squeezing through some very tight places and doing some pretty rough climbing, both going down and coming out. At the bottom I stood on a solid vein of rich gold ore over two feet wide and of unknown extent downwards and side ways. I couldn't help thinking when I was standing down in this tremendous depth under ground and watching the miners drilling for their next blast, what a curious thing it was that men should come all the way from Cornwall, as these miners had done, across thousands of miles of watery waste and barren plains, and dig more than a thousand feet into the side of one of the Rocky Mountains, just to get out some rather common looking pieces of stone. But it isn't nearly so strange as it is for several thousand fools to start for the Black Hills with nearly a certainty of either being turned back by our soldiers or murdered by the Indians, and an utter uncertainty whether if they do get there they will ever find any gold. Well, I got safely out of the gold mine with my curiosity fully appeased and no desire for any more of that kind of amusement, and next day I took the cars at Black Hawk and ran down to Clear Creek canon, joining the C. C. R. R. at Beaver Brook, the point where the trains diverge to Floyd's Hill and Black Hawk, respectively.

The scenery on the upper canon is wild and picturesque, very similar to that below Beaver Brook. For several miles after leaving Black Hawk we noticed gulsh miners hard at work, a few small parties of white men, but there were some large gangs (of one hundred or so) Chinamen. These men work for about $30 per month, and a good many mines that won't average over $2 to $4 per man won't pay at all with white labor, afford good returns to their owners with Chinese cheap labor.

The process of gulch mining is simple enough. A long trough (sometimes miles in length) is made and a stream of water turned into it. On the bottom of this trough, at intervals, cleats are nailed crosswise and some quicksilver laid behind each cleat. Then the men dig up the bottom of the stream and throw it by shovelfulls into the trough, the water carries it down—the heaviest part containing, of course, the gold (if there is any) is arrested by the cleats, and the quicksilver promptly seizes the gold and amalgamates with it. At proper periods the water is turned off, the amalgam is taken out, all remaining dirt washed off and the gold and quicksilver separated by a simple distilling apparatus. The gold is sold and the quicksilver used over.

Arrived again at Golden, I changed to a broad gauge car, and was soon again in Denver. Although I had been so few days in the mountains, it was long enough to make the rich verdure of the well irrigated fields between Golden and Denver very pleasant to look on. H. K.

Latest Advices Concerning Money and Stock Matters.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, TUESDAY, June 15, 1875.

Yesterday developed quite an active day's business at the banks, both in the line of current demands, and in the discounts that were applied for. The cashiers of several banks report a steadily growing demand for money, and the outlook, in their view, is favorable for a steadily growing volume of business. The banks have, outside of their regular customers, few desirable applicants for the surplus in their hands, and rates are correspondingly weak. The mercantile trade of the city has undeniably fallen short of the expectations that were entertained for it, but there is some comfort to be had in the concurrent testimony that, dull as it is, it is activity itself in comparison with the stagnation visible in the East.

—The Philadelphia Ledger has the following with regard to the struggle between the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania Railroad:

The damage resulting to the credit of the Baltimore & Ohio and the Pennsylvania Railroad Companies, by their continued warfare of rates, is told in the past and present prices of their respective stocks. Previous to the existing differences the stock of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad (par $100) sold at 190 per share. It is now quoted at about 170, with very few sales. The Pennsylvania Railroad (par $50) sold, when the two roads worked in comparative harmony, at 55 per share, and after the announcement of the last dividend, on the 1st of May, sold at 50½, and is now quoted at about 49¾, with large sales. It is thus seen that both companies are sufferers, the Baltimore & Ohio being the greater sufferer. As there is no reason for the suicidal policy which makes the owners of both companies severe losers in the prices of their stocks, there is hope that the stockholders will early enforce reconciliation.

—The New York Daily Bulletin of Thursday says: There are many rumors in regard to the railroad war, and there is no doubt that an effort is making to arrive at a settlement. Mr. Garrett demands as a preliminary that his cars shall be put back on the line leading to New York, and it is questionable whether Pennsylvania had in law the right to put them off. If that is conceded he is ready to negotiate in regard to freights to all points except Baltimore. Mr. Scott is ready to open negotiations. If personal feeling can be kept down it is believed that a settlement will be arrived at within a week. It is said that Mr. Garrett is determined never to allow his paper to be offered again in this market. His only object in sending it here at all was that he could sell it at better rates than in Baltimore.

NEW YORK, June 14, 1875.

Money was easy at 2@2½. Prime commercial paper 3½@5. Sterling was quiet at 487¾ for sixty days, and 490 for sight. The customs receipts were $416,000. Gold opened at 116¾, declined to 116½, and closed at 116⅜@116½. The carrying rates were 1@2 per cent. The Assistant Treasurer disbursed $860,000. The clearings were $31,000,000. Government and railroad bonds are firm. State securities are quiet.

The stock market has been quiet, with frequent changes between firmness and depression. At the opening, prices were generally ¼ to ½ per cent. higher than at the close on Saturday, but the improvement was subsequently lost in some cases. New Jersey Central was particularly weak, declining from 108⅝ to 107⅛. In final sales the market was dull, and in the main weaker. Northwest preferred was conspicuously weak, and declined from 49⅜ to 48¼. New Jersey Central closed at 107¼@107⅜, with sales at 107⅜. The weakness in this stock was caused by a report that the Reading Company would pass the dividend, the presumption being that the depression in the coal trade might also affect the New Jersey Central. Lake Shore closed at 63⅝, after selling at 64⅛. Union Pacific closed at 74⅝@74¾, after selling at 73⅞@74¼. The firmness of the Union Pacific was due to the new arrangement for a through line between St. Louis and San Francisco. St. Paul was strong and closed at 30⅝ for common and 54 for preferred on telegrams from the West that the company was in a good financial condition, and that the new Board of Directors had started on a tour of the road for the purpose of cutting down expenses. Pacific Mail was firm, and advanced to 33⅜. Erie was dull. Northwest common advanced to 37⅜, and closed at 37¼. Western Union sold at 74⅜@74¾, and Atlantic & Pacific Telegraph at 24. Ohio & Mississippi rose to 23⅜. Illinois Central declined to 100¼. The other changes were slight.

Governor Tilden signed the Erie Classification bill to-day.

The transactions on the Stock Exchange aggregated 160,000 shares, of which 29,000 were Pacific Mail, 13,000 Western Union, 16,000 Northwest, 5,000 St. Paul, 7,000 Erie, 62,000 Lake Shore, and 15,000 Union Pacific.

Condition of the Markets at Home and Abroad.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS—WEEKLY REVIEW.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, June 14, 1875.

While general business is by no means active, nor yet is it as brisk as it usually is at this particular time, it is about all possibly that we can reasonably expect; the inquiry for almost everything is confined mainly to supplying immediate necessities; people generally appear determined to keep, as the saying is, close to the shore, to carry no more stock than is necessary to keep up their trade, and, furthermore, many who prior to the panic were able to obtain all the goods they wanted, on time, are now obliged to measure their purchases by the amount of ready cash they have in hand. Our merchants generally have suffered severely from bad debts since the panic, and the consequence is they are now refusing to sell to long-winded and doubtful buyers, and this accounts partially for the falling off in business, as it has been pretty well demonstrated that it is better to do less business than to sell almost indiscriminately as was the case before the panic. In regard to values there have been no important changes since the date of our last review, but there appears to be a gradual shrinkage going on in almost everything, and business is unsatisfactory in consequence, as there is little or no margin for profit.

APPLES—The market continues slow, as it always is at this particular time, when there are fresh fruits and vegetables [illegible] out of season; quotable at $3@5 [illegible] they will soon be [illegible] ⅌ bbl, as to quality and condition.

APPLE BUTTER—Is about out of season, and while the supply is light, it is fully equal to the demand; we continue to quote at 50@55c ⅌ gal.

ALE—There is nothing to report in this branch of trade; the demand continues light and prices remain unchanged: X $9 per barrel to the country, and $8 to city; XX, $10; India Ale, $11. Half bbls. in regular proportion.

ASHES—Common Soda Ash, 3¼@3½ cents; refined do., 4@4¼; Potash, 7¼@8; Pearlash, 8½@9; Arsenic, 6; Manganese, 6½; Nitrate Soda, 3¾; Flour Spar, 2.

BEANS—There is a fair jobbing demand, and with continued light receipts, the market is steady although there has been no improvement in prices; we continue former quotations: mediums, $1,75@1,85; navies, $1,90 to $2. It will be several months before the new crop will be ready, and holders, in view of the very light receipts, entertain hopes of being able to work off what stock they have, although the indications at this writing are not favorable for much if any improvement in prices, and the fact that the market is now, and will be from this on, well supplied with green stuff, will have a tendency to curtail the consumption.

BUTTER—While the market is generally reported dull, it is worthy of notice that it has held out much longer than usual at this season of the year; here almost the middle of June, without any very decided decline in prices, whereas there is ordinarily a break down during the last half of May. The principal reason of this lies in the fact that the season has been very backward, and the production unusually light in consequence; however, dealers are now anxious to keep down stocks, from which it is evident that prices are expected to rule considerably lower this month than last. Prime to choice solid packed in firkins and tubs, 20@22; medium to good, 15@18; common, 10@12. Choice rolls of good color, of which there is but very little coming forward, may be quoted at 24@25. There is still some old stock but it can only be sold for grease, and it is unfit for anything else.

BEESWAX—Is quiet and nominally unchanged; 27@30c ⅌ lb.

BROOMS—"Union Factory" prices are as follows: No. 2, $2,50 ⅌ dozen; No. 3, $2,75; No. 4, $3,25; No. 5, $3,75; No. 6, $4; Patent ferule, $5; No. 5 Carpet, $4,75; No. 4, $4,50; No. 3, $4,25; Steamboat, $3,50@4,00; Mill Brooms, $3,25@3,75; Misses, $2,00@2,50; Toy, $1,25@2,00; Whisps, $1,50 to 2,50. The usual discount is allowed for round lots.

BROOM CORN—We quote as follows:—Hurl, 14 to 14½; choice green brush, 13 to 13½; good, 12 to 12½; fair, 11½ to 12; red tipped brush, 10½ to 10¾; inferior, 9 to 9½; green crooked, 10; red crooked, 8.

BROOM HANDLES—Choice No. 1 plain, $17@18; good, $15@16; choice No. 1 painted, $28@30; good No. 1 painted, $25@27; Toy Handles, painted, $20@22,50.

CHEESE—The receipts have been large during the past few days, and with the stock accumulating and a stronger disposition to realize in consequence, the market is weak and prices are lower: we now quote prime Ohio Factory at 11@11½. Low grade Cheese, including Dairy, is difficult to dispose of in this market at any price.

CEMENT, LIME, ETC.—Portland, Cement, per bbl, $6,75@7; Youghiogheny, $1,75@2; Keystone, $1,75@2; Louisville, $2@2,25; Rosendale, $3@3,50; Calcined Plaster—French's selected, $4@4,25; New York, $3,50@3,75; Nova Scotia, $3,00@3,25; Cleveland and Fremont White Lime, $1,65@1,75; Gibsonburg, 1,25@1,75.

COKE—Trade so far as we can learn, presents no new or important features worthy of special notice; the demand continues to keep up and prices are still maintained. We continue to quote at $2,75@3,00 per ton for Connellsville, delivered free on cars in Pittsburgh.

CORDAGE AND ROPE—The demand continues light, as it nearly always is at this particular time, while prices remain unchanged. Following is the full card:

COAL—There is no movement in Coal here in consequence of the continued suspension of navigation; the quantity loaded ready to move is said to be heavy, unusually so, and dealers are anxiously hoping for a rise so that it can be placed where it will do them some good, as it is dead stock in its present position. It is said that the stock, afloat, both at Cincinnati and Louisville is very much reduced.

DRIED FRUIT—There is rather more inquiry for Apples, and with a light supply the market is firmer; quotable at 7@8c for common to prime and 8½c for choice. Peaches continue quiet and unchanged; halves, 10@10½. Blackberries dull at 9@10. Elderberries, 7@8.

EGGS—The market has ruled quite steady during the past week, and with a very fair demand and light receipts prices have been further advanced; we now quote at 19@20, the outside figure for choice brands, guaranteed as such. Eggs have been bringing a good price in this market all spring; they at no time got below 14@15, and these rates prevailed for a few days only.

FEATHERS—Dull. Sales, in small lots, at 55c for choice, but a concession from these figures would have to be made on a round lot.

FLOUR—The market has been quiet during the past week, and while prices remain unchanged, the tendency continues downward. We continue to quote, in a jobbing way, as follows: Spring wheat flours, $5,75@6@6,25, the outside figure for choice Minnesota (baker) flour; winter, $6,15@6,35 for red and $6,50@7 for amber and white. As stated in our last review, the offerings have increased considerably within the past few weeks; millers who during the excitement which prevailed last month in regard to the wheat crop, which, it was then apprehended would be a very light one, were unwilling almost to name a price, are now anxious to sell for considerably less, 50@75c per bbl, than could then have been obtained. Rye flour, $6@6,25.

FURS—Muskrat, 25@30; Opossum, 10@15; red Fox, $1,00@1,25; black Skunk, $1,25@1,50; striped Skunk, 20@75; Raccoon, 40@60; Mink, $1@2,25.

GROCERIES—Coffee—A better business is doing in Rio and importers are firm in their views. The market remained unchanged during the last week, but the very large reduction in stock to less than 50,000 bags of Rio in first hands induces the opinion that prices will advance. In mild descriptions the importers hold 16,000 bags and 47,418 mats at unchanged figures. Sugars are stronger at 1-16 advance on refined standard, while raws show no variation but are firm. The stocks are, in first hands, 9,371 hhds. below the quantity held at this date last year. The prospect is not favorable for low prices. Syrups, Molasses, and Rice steady. Star Candles have advanced 1c ⅌ lb at the factories, but no change in our market yet.

GRAIN—Dealers hereabouts all agree in reporting the grain markets dull and unsatisfactory; that, in addition to being obliged to sell for considerably less than cost, they have no little difficulty in making collections. The great bulk of the receipts recently were contracted for prior to the break-down in prices, and dealers generally have sustained more or less loss in consequence; some are disposed to hold in hopes of better prices, but others again, being unable to see anything to warrant these hopes, are anxious to sell—to meet their loss and be done with it. There is little or nothing doing in Wheat, but little offering and not much call for it: in the absence of sales, Penna. and Ohio red may be quoted at $1,25@1,30; ditto amber and white, $1,33@1,35. The Oat market continues dull, and notwithstanding the arrivals recently have been comparatively light, prices were barely maintained; 67@68 for mixed and 69@70 for white, a decline of 4@5c ⅌ bushel, as compared with the highest point. Ear Corn continues dull, with considerable offering and prices are weak at 74@76 on track for mixed to prime. Shelled Corn is also dull but nominally unchanged at 78@80, free in elevator. The receipts of Rye continue light, but there is little or no demand for it; quotable nominally at $1,15@1,18.

GREEN STUFF—Continues to come forward freely, but with a steady demand, very fair prices are being obtained. New Potatoes ⅌ bbl. $7@$7,50; Cabbages ⅌ bbl. $3@3,25; Radishes ⅌ doz bunches 30@35. Onions ⅌ doz bunches, 25 to 30; Bermuda Onions ⅌ box, $1,25; Strawberries ⅌ box, 12 to 15 cents.

GINSENG—Some inquiry for this article but in the absence of sales we omit quotations.

HAY—There has been a steady demand for baled during the past week, and we can report regular sales, on track, at $22@24 for fair to prime timothy. Loose is selling from country wagons at $25@30. Little or nothing doing in Straw.

HEMP—Dull; sales Kentucky rough at $170. No dressed here.

HIDES—There has been a falling off in the demand; the market is dull, but few transaction; but little disposition on the part of buyers to purchase, except at low prices. Heavy plump steers are the only kind that can be sold to advantage. We quote:

MILL FEED—The market for Bran continues very dull, and prices have declined to $19@20 per ton. Shorts, Seconds and Shipstuffs quotable at $1,15@1,20; Middlings, $1,40@1,50; Chopped Feed, $1,60@1,70.

OILS—Lard oil is neglected, except for No. 2, John V. Lewis & Co.'s manufacture of Miners oil having taken its place with the coal operators, because of the much lower price and better burning quality. We quote "Miners" at 80@85c ⅌ gallon, while extra Lard oil is held at $1,18, and No. 1 at $1@1,10, as to quality. Linseed oil steady at 73 to 75. Carbon firmer but dull; quotable at 11½@12c by the carload.

POTATOES—The market, in consequence of diminished receipts, has improved considerably since the date of our last report, and prices have been advanced 10@15c ⅌ bushel. Prime Peach Blows are selling at 83@85c on track, and 90@95c from store. However, there is not much confidence in the immediate future of the market, as new crop will soon be ready to take the place of old.

PROVISIONS—Have reacted and Sugar Cured Hams have advanced, at the packing centres, ¼ to ½ a cent per lb from the late decline, with little disposition on the part of holders to part with their stock, a belief prevailing that higher values will ensue. Lard finds ready sale, and current make is taken ahead of production, while winter lard is held off the market owing to a difference of views between buyer and seller. Mess Pork dull and neglected. Shoulders and Sides firm, and the same may be said of Breakfast Bacon, which is scarce.

ALLEGHENY LIVE STOCK MARKET —WEEKLY REVIEW.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, June 14, 1875.

ALLEGHENY STOCK YARDS.

CATTLE—GENERAL FEATURES OF THE MARKET.

The supply on sale was again small, 33 cars or 598 head, of which 26 cars were from Chicago, 2 cars from Indiana and 5 cars from Ohio; the average quality was scarcely as good as it has been, nor is it likely that there will be any improvement in this respect soon, as the kind in question is reported very scarce. The general position of the market was substantially the same as that of last Monday, or we might say for several weeks past. Cattle of all grades brought very full prices, and there was the usual growling, both on the part of drovers and butchers; it was very generally conceded that cattle brought fully as much as they did last Monday—in some instances more, but the Chicago bought cattle cost more, and hence did but little good for their owners; however, almost everything on sale was picked up early in the day, and, as already intimated, the market was all that could be expected, although very generally unsatisfactory.

Extra butcher cattle quotable at 7¾@8c; prime, 7¼@7½; medium to good, 6½@7; common, 5½@6. The common and medium grades were very generally regarded as the dearest; there were cattle sold at 6@6¼ that were much dearer to the butcher, so it was remarked by those who are in a position to know, than those costing 7@7½. There was but a single car of grassers, and no straight lots of stockers or bulls; stockers may be fairly quoted at 3½@5, as to quality, and bulls at 4@6c.

Alexander Greenwald had the best cattle on sale to-day; he was offered and refused 8⅜ for 2 extra 3 year old steers, averaging 1,450 lbs, fine as silk—they were purchased by Mr. C. Salzner, the well-known Smithfield street butcher.

We are informed that it has been almost impossible recently to obtain, even in Chicago, as many of the finer grades of cattle as are required to supply the butchers, who want this particular kind, even at the extreme prices now current. It is said that cattle have been held with much more tenacity in first hands within the past few weeks in consequence of the pasture having improved very materially, as farmers having plenty of grass are refusing to sell, unless they can obtain very full prices.

Following shows the number of cattle on sale, the States they were from as well as the names of the owner or shipper:

SHEEP AND LAMBS.

The supply was considerably less than that of last week, but the demand was also light and the market, notwithstanding the diminished offerings, was slow, the best evidence of which was that there were a number remaining unsold late in the forenoon; prices, however, were substantially the same as those of last week. Sheep were sold at 5¼@5,60, in a retail way for prime to extra, and 4½@5 for fair to good; common, $2@2,50 per head. Lambs, of which the supply was less than it has been for some weeks, ranged from $2 to $4½ ⅌ head, according to quality and condition. The stock on sale was reported as follows:

HOGS.

The market was very quiet, but few on sale and but few wanted, although in sympathy with East Liberty, there was a firmer feeling. May be fairly quoted in a retail way at 7½@8c, gross, according to quality. It is worthy of notice, however, that, as compared with the highest point, prices have declined almost 2c ⅌ lb.

VEAL CALVES.

Continue to come in freely, as is usually the case at this particular time, and with skins down to 10c ⅌ lb, prices are weak and lower; we reduce our quotations to 5@6c, with butchers generally wanting to buy the best at 5½.

FRESH COWS.

There was a fair supply but they were mostly common in point of quality; prices have undergone no change recently, ranging at $35 to 75, according to quality and condition. Geo. Hammerly reported 3 at $40@50 each; John Beeler 1 at $45; Gus Farlen had 3; John Cullen, 6; Sullivan, 8.

PITTSBURGH TOBACCO MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, June 14, 1875.

The inactivity in the Tobacco market heretofore reported, still continues, and the only new feature to report is the advance of 2c per lb for best western makes. The new leaf on the brakes at Louisville is arriving freely, but is of such a character as not to be utilized by the manufacturers of plug Tobaccos, especially for such grades as command the highest market price. There is nothing in this crop that will do to call for manufacturing good Louisville Tobaccos, hence the price for good sound and sweet leaf keeps a stiff upper lip, whilst there is a marked decline in fair single leaf; and this decline will manifest itself still more, because that class of leaf is neither good enough for shipping nor for the manufacture of good plug, hence the takers, for the amount offered will be few and decline in numbers as the season advances, and that character of leaf will be depressed considerably before the summer is over. This, of course, will cheapen the product made from such leaf. We predict considerable of a tumble for all grades and sorts of cut and dry smoking Tobaccos made from Kentucky lugs, and if there was an opportunity for a decline in Tobies these too would have to experience a backward course, but at present prices nothing is in them, and consequently they will remain at prices now quoted as long as the tax remains at $6 per thousand. There seems to be no indication now that manufactured Tobaccos will be any higher this season, and at the same time the impression of fixed high figures for fine grades of plug amounts to a certainty with men who have made the scarcity of sweet fillery leaf a subject of close inquiry; there is no telling, however, how another advance may yet be established on top of the high prices of the leading Louisville brands. The makers at Louisville are now doing nothing—the stocks in the country being too large. A general and active demand from Boston to Chicago may bring forth another advance when it is least expected.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, MONDAY, June 14, 1875.

Trade continues quiet and the market presents but little that is really new or important. Refined was reported weaker as compared with Saturday, with sales up to July 15th, at 13c, delivered in Philadelphia; Baltimore delivery same as Philadelphia, 13c. Crude quiet and unchanged; immediate shipment offered at $1,42½ ⅌ bbl.

The disastrous conflagration at the Brilliant Oil Works, the largest and most complete establishments of the kind in this vicinity, occasioned, as might be expected, considerable discussion in oil circles, and the proprietors, Messrs. Lockhart & Frew, have the sympathy not only of the trade but the community. It is gratifying to learn that they had considerable insurance, although it falls largely short of the actual cost. We cannot speak definitely, but it is probable they will at once rebuild.

The Barrel trade continues quiet and unchanged; city make, $1,30; countries, $1,10@1,15.

ARRIVALS.
Elizabeth, Irwin, Elizabeth.
Salt Valley, Sanford, Ironton.

DEPARTURES.
Elizabeth, Irwin, Elizabeth.
Mallie Ragon, Williamson, Wheeling.

THE stage of water last evening was three feet nine inches, and about stationary. Clear and pleasant, and all that could possibly be desired for outdoor business.

THE Exchange was to have left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh yesterday.

THE Salt Valley was the only arrival, and the Mallie Ragon the only departure.

The towboats Wild Duck and A. J. Baker passed Cincinnati on Sunday, going down.

THE Fannie Tatum is on her way up the river. She left Cincinnati on Saturday morning.

CAPT. F. Y. BATCHELOR is in Cincinnati, and will leave there on Wednesday for Boston to rejoin his wife, who went there last week on a visit.

THE Sam Brown, James Brown and Alice Brown passed Wheeling on Saturday, en route for this port, and the J. M. Camden, on Sunday, all coming up.

FREIGHT from Cairo to New Orleans by rail is now taken at 12½c ⅌ cwt, and 25c ⅌ bbl on flour. The boats are doing very little business at the Egyptian Capital.

THE Ed. Hobbs arrived at Bellaire from St. Louis on Friday. After leaving two barges of ore at the Benwood mill she returned to Antiquity after the remainder of her tow.

A DEPTH of between 7 and 8 feet is reported on Rosa Bar, the shoalest place in Red River below Shreveport. The W. J. Behan had to lighten her freight last week to reach Minden, Lake Bisteneau.

THE Oakland and Granite State collided Sunday morning at Chambersburg, ten miles above Gallipolis. The Granite State had a hole knocked in her larboard bow, and took water freely, but escaped sinking.

AN Evansville dispatch, under date of Saturday, says:—The Dick Johnson struck a log above Owensboro, stove a hole in her larboard bow, ran ashore, and was pumping out as the Gray Eagle passed down. She has not yet arrived.

THE fine steamer John L. Rhoads will take her departure for St. Louis to-day, and passengers and shippers should bear this in mind. Captain J. M. Vandergrift is in command, and Messrs. Fisher and Greenlee are associated together in the office.

FRIDAY night, between eight and nine o'clock, the tow-boat L. W. Morgan, assisting the Smoky City with her tow to Pittsburgh, sunk the keelboat Savage Mountain, with twelve hundred barrels of cement, on Raccoon Bar. A protest has been entered.......The John Gilmore, Nashville to Pittsburgh, passed up with empty barges.—Cin. Gazette, Monday.

THE Exchange, from Pittsburgh, brought a fair trip, reshipping 175 tons on the Vint. Shinkle for Memphis. She has thirty tons for reshipment to New Orleans. She returns to Pittsburgh forthwith. The Exchange brought from Pittsburgh a four-oared scull-boat, built by Henry Coulter, of Pittsburgh. It is 42½ feet long, a fine model, weighs 42½ pounds, and is made out of Spanish cedar. It is a present from the well-known coal merchant, John A. Wood, to the Crescent City Boat Club of New Orleans. It will be taken to New Orleans on the Mary Houston.—Cin. Commercial, Monday.

A ST. LOUIS special to the Cincinnati Commercial under date of 12th says: Business is fair. The John F. Tolle left for New Orleans with all she wanted, and the Grand Lake follows in the morning, with two barges and 1,000 tons. The City of Quincy is the next boat to load for New Orleans, leaving on Wednesday. "Walt," the Cairo correspondent of the Cincinnati Commercial was in the city to-day, and returned home this evening. There is very little doing at the ore pile. One of the Salt Company's barges, and a barge for the Grand Tower, are all that are taking cargo. Captains William Rhodes, P. S. Davidson and R. H. Campbell left for St. Paul this evening. Commodore R. C. Gray, is still here. The Andy Johnson will not require a new shaft; a crank and cylinder-head is all. Captain Conant of the Evansville Courier, left for home to-day. The Utah begins loading for Pittsburgh on Monday. Rates to New Orleans are forty cents for flour and twenty cents per cwt.

HOME NEWS.

The Sewickley Fire.

The loss by the fire at Sewickley early yesterday morning will amount to about $10,000. Mr. Merriman's loss is estimated at $4,000, fully covered by a policy of $2,500 in the Etna of New York and $1,500 in another. Besides this he had an insurance in the Rochester, of Pennsylvania, on his household goods. Mr. Hood's loss is, approximately, $4,000, on which there is an insurance of $1,500 in the Allemania of this city, and another policy in the Etna, which will cover his loss. A policy of $200 on the contents is held in the Rochester of Pennsylvania. The same company has a policy on the contents of Dillon's house of $100.

A Good Officer Complimented.

Yesterday afternoon at the meeting of the Corporators of the Allegheny Cemetery, Dr. J. R. Speer was complimented by a reelection to the office of Secretary and Treasurer. This was but a merited compliment to a very efficient officer. Dr. Speer, has held the office for many years, and has so discharged its duties as to give unqualified satisfaction. He is a safe, careful man, and one who has shown that he is in every way trustworthy and competent. The duties of the office are such as require tact, and business capacity, and the fact, that the Dr. has again been elected to fill it, shows that he is the right man in the right place. He is certainly deserving of this renewed expression of confidence.

Arrested the Wrong Man.

It appears that a little thieving has been going on at Salineville for a few days past, and the officers have attempted to effect the arrest of the guilty parties. Yesterday a passenger train was coming over the Cleveland & Pittsburgh Railroad, which was supposed to have on board one of the men who was wanted. When the train arrived at East Liverpool a colored man by the name of John H. Morris was nabbed by an officer, but was subsequently released. It was ascertained, after the arrest had been made, that Morris was a porter on the steamboat "Carrie Brooks" and that he had only came up the river yesterday, and got on board the train to come to Pittsburgh. He was released from custody and the officer started out to hunt up another man.

Allegheny Cemetery.

At a meeting of corporators of Allegheny Cemetery, held at the office on the grounds, June 12, 1875, the Hon. T. J. Bigham was called to the chair, J. R. Speer acting as Secretary.

President—T. M. Howe.

Managers—W. McCandless, J. H. Shoenberger, J. R. Speer, J. K. Moorhead, Wm. Thaw, C. J. Clarke, J. R. Speer, Secretary and Treasurer.

After hearing reports from the Secretary and Superintendent, showing a satisfactory condition of the affairs of the corporation, the meeting adjourned.

The Temperance Alliance.

The regular meeting of the Temperance Alliance was held yesterday, Mr. W. W. Morris in the chair.

Reports from various persons were made as to the work which had been done last week.

The Harrisburg Convention was discussed at some length, when Rev. Mr. Beacom offered the following resolution, which was adopted:

Resolved, That our delegates be instructed to favor a plank in the Prohibition Platform against the division of the common school fund for Sectarian purposes.

The following are the delegates to the convention: T. H. Rabe, Arthur Kirk, T. B. Hershberger, Rev. T. H. Hanna, Mr. Turner (Sharpsburg), Rev. S. P. Jennings, R. B. Machesney, Mrs. Finley Torrance and Mrs. Arthur Kirk.

After deciding to hold a mass meeting in the Opera House next Sabbath, the Alliance adjourned.

OBITUARY.

Died in Allegheny City, May 26, 1875 of Typhoid Pneumonia, Richard Jenkinson, Aged 39 Years.

The death of this well known citizen has brought sadness and a sense of loss to a very wide circle of sorrowing friends. Cut down in the very prime of life, and by an illness so brief that many of his most intimate friends had not time to be aware of it—it is hard even yet to realize that he is gone. On Thursday, May 20, he was at his place of business as usual, but feeling unwell went home before noon, little suspecting he would never come back, but the fatal disease prostrated him immediately, and after a week of intense suffering his spirit took its flight to a better world. Having lost his father by death, when he was only 12 years old, he was early thrown upon his own resources. Without money, friends or favorable opportunities he began the battle of life, and nobly did he bear his part to the end. Cheerfully willing to do whatsoever his hand found to do with his might, that he should not be dependent on others, he began in the most humble way and never spared himself or complained in any circumstances.

From the beginning his amiable disposition, his honor, honesty and industry won for him the esteem and confidence of his acquaintances, and when he was able to start into business for himself he had already many kind friends interested in his future welfare.

As was the boy, so was the man, and his business prospered,—generous, obliging, kindly and honorable in all the relations of life, he was a man respected by all who knew him—and most beloved by those who knew him best—and there was many a one who wept over him in death, to whom he had been the friend in need, and many a story of his kindly help was told beside his coffin. Among the business men of the two cities he was esteemed and trusted as the soul of honor and integrity. His acquaintance was very wide, for by his unaffected friendliness he made friends every where. On the day before his funeral great numbers of his business acquaintances—his employes and friends,—came to take a last look at him, sorrowing that they should see his face no more; and the unusual concourse which followed him to the grave testified how well he was appreciated and beloved in his well-spent life. He had no high place in the world, held no office, was not a man of great wealth or position—this assembly was a spontaneous tribute, tearful and touching and genuine—a tribute to the memory of a good man. Every one was a friend, and every friend a mourner. He needs no printed eulogy to perpetuate his name and memory; they will live in many hearts fragrant and fresh forever.

In the place God put him, and in the work he had to do, he fulfilled his mission and was faithful. Such a life is not lived in vain. There is nothing striking or eventful to record that would interest the busy world, but because in the quiet ways appointed him he did his duty in all the walks of life as a son, a brother, a husband, father, citizen, friend, it was a noble life, and was not lived in vain. Not to the honored, wise or great, but to the faithful servant shall it be said, "Well done." He has died as to this world but in the brighter, better world has begun to live forever, where "there shall be no more death; neither sorrow, nor crying; neither shall there by any more pain." May the God of the widow and the fatherless, grant to his sorrowing wife and her three fatherless children, the comfort of His divine sympathy and presence, and the consolation of His grace.

Ordianance for the grading, paving and curbing of Vickroy street, from Stevenson to Pride streets. Laid over until next meeting.

A number of ordinances relative to the improvement of the streets at the Point were referred back to the committee.

REPAVING OF WOOD STREET AND FIFTH AVENUE.

The report of the Board of Viewers on the repaving of Fifth avenue, from Smithfield street to Liberty street, was to the effect that the proposed improvement would be of both a local and a general benefit. They recommended that the city pay three-fourths of the cost of the improvement and the property owners one-fourth, provided that the avenue shall be paved with material other than cobble stone, agreeably to the prayer of the petitioners. A similar report was made concerning the proposed repaving of Wood street, from Water to Liberty streets. Both reports were referred back to the Street Committee.

In Select Council the reports were referred to the City Solicitor for the purpose of ascertaining how much of the cost can be assessed on the property holders.

Viewers' report on the opening of Sarah street, from Thirty-fourth to Jane streets, South Side. Approved.

Viewers' report on the opening of Cliff street, from Cassatt to Ledlie streets. Approved.

Mr. HAHN presented the report of the Monongahela Wharf Committee for the month of May. Received and filed.

Mr. BINDLEY presented a petition from George Finley for a reduction of valuation. Referred.

Mr. SEIBERT, petition of Christian Seibert for a change of the location of Harrison street, from Fifty-first street to McCandless avenue. Referred.

THE REVISORS ORDERED TO BE PAID.

Mr. FOLEY called up the resolution authorizing the Controller to issue his warrant on the Mayor for the payment of the members of the late Board of Revision. After some discussion the action of Select Council in passing the resolution was concurred in.

Mr. THOMPSON moved that the action taken at the last meeting referring to the Allegheny Wharf Committee a resolution directing the Master of the Allegheny wharf to relieve it of all rubbish and encumbrances, and revoking all leases of the wharf for storage purposes, be reconsidered. Lost. Council refused to reconsider its action for the reason that the Committee is desired to make a report regarding the amount of revenue derived from the wharf before it consents to a revocation of the leases.

Mr. NEGLEY presented a resolution providing that when Common Council adjourns at the last meeting in this month, it adjourn until the second Monday of September, unless specially called under the rules. A joint resolution to this effect was adopted by Common Council on the 31st. ult., but it being doubtful whether Select Council could take it up, Mr. Negley's resolution was passed.

Mr. SEIBERT, petition of Wm. Rosenburg's heirs for the restoration of McCandless avenue to its original location. Referred.

Mr. FOX, petition for the cutting down of the intersection of Spring alley with Race street. Referred.

Mr. FELKER, petition of Terrence McCabe for the refunding of overpaid taxes. Referred.

Business from Select Council was taken up, and an ordinance amending section 2 of an ordinance entitled an ordinance to carry into effect section 6 of an Act of Assembly entitled an act dividing cities of this Commonwealth, &c., passed in S. C. May 31, was adopted.

THAT SUSPICIOUS TRIO.

Their Cases Called in the Criminal Court.

In the Criminal Court yesterday morning Judge Stowe on the bench, the case of the Commonwealth vs. H. A. Zurdam, Geo. Palmer and H. J. Thomas was called up for trial. It will be remembered that the defendants are charged with having entered the Peoples Savings Bank with intent to commit a felony. About six weeks ago they were arrested on suspicion of being professional thieves, and were taken before the Mayor who sentenced them to Claremont for ninety days. They were subsequently released on a writ of habeas corpus, but were immediately re-arrested on the charge on which they were tried yesterday. The Commonwealth was represented by Col. Bayne and W. C. Stillwagon, Esq., and the defense by Messrs. Marshall, Reardon and Pearson.

The testimony offered was much the same as that brought out at the time the defendants were before the Common Pleas Court No. 2 on a writ of habeas corpus, which has already been published. In addition to the witnesses who appeared against them from this city, Mr. Lutz, of Baltimore, who is a hotel proprietor in that city, stated that he knew Thomas, and that two years ago he was known by the name of J. C. Hoyt. The defence offered no evidence, and after the addresses of the respective counsel, Judge Stowe proceeded to charge the jury. He said that a mere attempt to commit a crime, unless there is a step taken to consummate the crime, is not indictable, but almost every criminal offence is affected more or less by the intent. Thus a man may break into a house to shelter him from the storm or to keep him from freezing, and if his intention was not to commit a felony he could not be found guilty of that offense. In this case, the Court said, the question for the jury to determine is what were the intentions of the defendants in entering the People's Saving Bank. The burden of the proof remained with the Commonwealth. The jury must not assume that because the three defendants were in the bank together they were there to commit a felony. If there was no other testimony offered than that relative to their presence in the People's Savings Bank, the Judge continued, I should be afraid to convict, if I were a juror; but it it does not end there. Under my ruling I allowed their presence to be shown in other places. The Court continued to say that even if the defendants had stolen jewelry in the two or three stores where it was shown they had visited, that was not conclusive that they had intended to rob the People's Savings Bank. If the jury find that the defendants were in the bank with intention merely of looking around and with a view to return at some future time, they could not convict under the indictment. In conclusion his Honor said that the jury might convict Thomas and Zurdam, and, if they believed the testimony justified, they could acquit Palmer, as he was not with the others at all times.

The jury retired to their room at two o'clock, and at the adjournment of Court had not agreed upon a verdict.

THE LIGHT FINGERED.

Pickpockets Captured—How Their Games Were Interrupted.

For some days past a number of pickpockets have been operating in Allegheny, and yesterday they took advantage of the Saengerfest at Washington Park, on Troy Hill, to be present. One of them was detected and arrested by Lieut. Roll and Officer Emanuel, and placed in the lock-up. He was seen by several persons picking the pockets of different individuals and afterwards dividing his spoils with another person. He refused to give his name. About seven o'clock last evening these same officers arrested a boy named Robert Dill, who was practicing the same game, and who also attempted to rob a till. As they were removing him to the lock-up they were followed by some of his friends, and one of them, named Thomas Daley, struck officer Emanuel on the head with a bottle and inflicted a severe wound. Several other officers were also struck and slightly injured with stones. Daley and a young man named McKelvey and another named John Gebbart were all arrested and locked up. An information for aggravated assault and battery will be lodged against Daley today.

A Heavy Loss.

About noon yesterday one of the drivers for Gangwisch's brewery, purchased $175 worth of revenue stamps, to be placed on beer barrels, at the office of the U. S. Internal Revenue collector's office, and started back to the brewery. When he arrived there he found that the stamps were gone. They had most likely been dropped somewhere. A search for them was made, but they could not be found.

Fight on Fifth Avenue.

Two men named Devlin and Everson got into a fight about eight o'clock last night on Fifth avenue, at the White House, and officers McClury and Farnan, who attempted to arrest them, were pretty severely handled. Detective O'Mara came to the rescue in the nick of time, and with his assistance the belligerent couple were lodged in the Central Police Station. They afterward left deposits for their appearance this morning. The fight created great excitement and attracted a very large crowd.

(Before Judges Kirkpatrick and White.)

The case of Moorhead et al. vs. the city of Allegheny et al. is still on trial before Judge White.

In the case of R. A. Wilson et al. vs. Geo. Reis et al. the jury is out.

An affidavit having been made on request of the Court for the facts and the same having been presented to the Court, it was ordered that a rule be granted on Patrick McGinley, returnable June 16th, at 10 o'clock A. M., to show cause why an attachment should not issue against him for disobediance mis-behavior and contempt of Court as a Juror. This is one of the cases mentioned in our columns on Saturday morning, in which a juror had been charged with demanding $25 from the successful contestant in the case of Brown & Irwin vs. Negley In an affidavit made by Mr. Negley it is represented that on the evening of the day the verdict was rendered, two men called at his residence in the Nineteenth ward and demanded a fee of ten dollars each for services rendered him as jurors in the case named. Mr. Negley refused to comply with their requests, but on certain representations of McGinley, he avers that he (Negley) gave him ten dollars. The affiant was not able to give the name of the other juror who visited him, but thought he would be able to identify him.

HOW HE WAS CAUGHT.

The Arrest of James Farrell, the Cutter and Fighter.

Detective Jim Scott succeeded yesterday morning in arresting James Farrell, the man who cut James Liddy at the American House last Saturday night. The arrest was effected at the Rush House and was the result of close and constant watchfulness on the part of the detective. The description he had of Farrell was that he had a hole in the bridge of his nose and that the index finger of his right hand was missing. It will be remembered that John Curry was arrested on Saturday night as a participant in the affair, but on Sunday morning the Mayor discharged him, being satisfied that he had no criminal connection with it. Detective Scott, not succeeding to his own satisfaction in getting upon the trail of Farrell, bethought himself that perhaps Curry would be likely to place himself in connection with the fugitive, as they were both friends, and he concluded that his best course would be to shadow Curry, which he did with good results. He traced Farrel to the Rush House. When he entered he saw a man answering the description of the one for whom he was looking, but was unable to get a glimpse of his hand. Going up to Farrel the detective said, "How do you do?" and put forth his hand. Farrell very naturally did the same thing, and Scott had no sooner got the three fingers in his grip that he knew he had the right man, nor did he let go, but concluded the morning salutation by saying "You're my prisoner." Farrell instantly collapsed, and the regretful remark, "I wish'd I'd a skipped when I had a chance," showed what was passing in his mind. He was taken to the Central Police Station, and subsequently committed to jail for a hearing next Monday, by which time it is thought Liddy will be able to be about. The wounded man has eleven cuts on his person, but none of them are dangerous.

TURNED UP,

Still Among the Living.

In our yesterday's edition we reported the supposed drowning of a man named Edward Crummie, who it was supposed had fallen from a coal float in the Allegheny river on Saturday night. The river was dragged for the body until late on Sunday evening, but the body could not be found. Yesterday morning it was learned that he was still alive and was then at the residence of his wife's parents, about ten miles from the city, where he had gone during Saturday night.

Summer Resorts.

For a long time Pittsburghers have complained that there was no summer resort where a man could enjoy the beauties of nature, and escape the heat of the city, unless he left and hied away to some watering place, and thereby neglected his business, which all men could not do. This has been remedied by one of our enterprising citizens, Mr. W. S. Jackson, proprietor of the lovely place called "Idlewood." Mr. Jackson intends over-seeing it himself, which is a guarantee that everything will be first class. Near to the city, and at the same time in the country, in the true sense of the word, we know of no more desirable place to take up a summer abode. We have no doubt he will be crowded, as no such opportunity has been offered before.

THE CONVENTIONS TO-DAY.

Figuring up Yesterday—The Sheriffalty Contest—Where Lively Times are Anticipated To-day.

There was plenty of excitement in political circles yesterday. The returns from the precincts came in slowly, and hardly in a shape to give a fair idea of the result. Each candidate had his own advices, and especially where a contest was on hand, each man was certain he had a "sure thing" of winning the day. The chief interest centered in and the indications pointed to a lively scrimmage to-day. Fife, last night, claimed 83 delegates, Diehl counted on 78, and Lindsay counted on 80 sure, with several contests to hear from. These, however, are but the figures as given by the candidates, and are liable to revision and equalization. It is certain, however, that there will be no choice on the first ballot, and the second ballot will develop a fierce fight.

COUNTY COMMISSIONER.

Next in interest comes the contest on County Commissioner. Capt. McClelland, according to last night's figures, will go through on the first ballot, closely followed by Beckert. On the second ballot there will be a lively hurdle race with Beckert, Murray, Robb and Weddle as the participants. This Convention promises to be one of the spiciest of any of the gatherings.

CONTROLLER.

For Controller, Warner, who has made one of the best officers Allegheny county ever had, will go through with flying colors on the first ballot. Lewis may reach fifty votes, at the outside, but his opponent will have as good as a walk over.

CLERK OF COURTS.

"Billy" McCleary, for Clerk of Courts, will have no opposition. He will be nominated by acclamation.

RECORDER.

Richardson will make the landing on Recorder on the first ballot. Varner will likely come up from the rural districts with a good complimentary vote, but with not enough to endanger, in any way, his opponent.

REGISTER.

A little breeze is anticipated here—as Case developed some strength in the later returns received yesterday. The returns indicate that Gray will lead, Case come in second, Allen third and Brown fourth, but Gray has a sufficient lead to make his friends feel perfectly confident.

CAUCUSSING.

Several caucuses were held last night, but there were no combinations effected up to midnight. The temper of the candidates and delegates seemed to be to avoid any combinations until the Conventions meet, and there has been a square stand-up fight in the contested offices.

THE CONVENTIONS.

Each Convention will consist of two hundred and twenty delegates, and will be called to order at eleven o'clock.

No. 1, to nominate a candidate for Sheriff, will meet in room No. 1 of Common Pleas Court No. 1, and be called to order by C. S. Fetterman, Esq.

No. 2, to nominate a candidate for Recorder and a candidate for Register, in room No. 2 of Common Pleas Court No. 1. To be called to order by Hon. J. C. Newmyer.

No. 3, to nominate a candidate for Clerk of the Courts and a candidate for Director of the Poor, in room No. 1 Common Pleas Court No. 2. To be called to order by Col. Thomas M. Bayne.

No. 4, to nominate a candidate for Controller and two candidates for Commissioner, in room No. 2 Common Pleas Court No. 2. To be called to order by Captain John Gilfillan.

The tally sheets have been prepared and are in form to report the result of each convention to the County Committee, at a meeting to be held on Thursday afternoon next. The committee particularly requests secretaries to preserve the credentials of delegates or a list of their names and districts.

"Give the South Side a Share."

To the Editors of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

I think there are indications of a total disregard of the interests and rights of the South Side Republicans. In the city wards particularly, there is a great and growing discontent at the manner of party management, and if our candidates are to be ignored in the distribution of nominations at the coming delegate convention, you may feel sure that the disaffection will increase. While we acknowledge that sectional feeling should not be allowed to endanger our success as a party, yet we do contend that fair play should so distribute the selection of nominees as to prevent all feeling of a sectional character. We do not ask for more than the representation equal to our merits and the size of our district, and we give notice to the County Nominating Conventions that we shall exact that as our right.

DELEGATE.

ALLEGHENY WATER AFFAIRS.

The Appropriation for the Water Department Exhausted—More Money Needed.

The Water Committee of Allegheny Councils met last evening, Mr. A. D. Smith presiding.

Mr. Peterines was allowed an exoneration of $12.00 of his water tax.

Complaints were made that the water supply on Ridge avenue was very poor. The matter was referred to the Superintendent of the water works and the City Engineer for examination.

The following statement of the condition of the appropriation of the committee was submitted by Controller Brown:

|---|---|
| To amount paid to date | $25,945 57 |
| Bills approved and unpaid | 2,481 32 |
| Due A. Hartupee on last estimate | 2,000 00 |
| Total | $30,426 89 |
| Amount of appropriation | 30,000 00 |
| Overdrawn | $ 426, 89 |
| RESERVOIR FUND. | |
| To proceeds of $40,000 bonds | $40,663 12 |
| Paid McNaugher & Co., Estimate No. 1 | 2,708 00 |
| Balance on hand | $37,955 12 |

The communication was received. As the reservoir fund can only be applied to the improvement of the water reservoir, the committee found they had no money to pay the current expenses of the water works for the balance of the year. After some discussion it was agreed to ask Councils to issue $35,000 worth of bonds for this purpose, and to pay the expense of extending water mains.

A number of petitions for extension and laying of water pipes were laid over until Councils have taken action in regard to issuing the bonds.

The matter of moving the Troy Hill water tank back some distance was then taken up and discussed at considerable length, when it was determined, by a unanimous vote, that no change be made in regard to the tank, and no changes be made in the original contract for improving the reservoir.

IN MEMORIAM.

The Death of James B. Miller.

At a recent meeting of the Knox Literary Society the following resolutions were adopted:

WHEREAS, This Society has learned with profound regret of the death of our esteemed member and beloved companion James B. Miller, who, by his many estimable traits of character, courteous demeanor and earnestness of purpose, had endeared himself to all with whom he came in contact, therefore, be it

Resolved, That we bow in submission to the will of our Heavenly Father "who doeth all things well," and feel admonished by this sad affliction to be ready for the final hour.

Resolved, That by his death, at so early a period of life, with his manifestly bright prospect for future usefulness, this Society has lost a respected and valued member, the members a genial and loving companion, and his family a kind and affectionate son and brother.

Resolved, That we tender our heart-felt sympathy to the family of the deceased in this their hour of affliction, and that we hereby testify to the worth, integrity, and manly honor of one endeared to us by ties of Friendship, Love and Truth.

Resolved, That as a token of affection and respect to his memory, our Society Room be suitably draped for the period of thirty days.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered on the minutes of this Society, and that a copy be presented to the family of the deceased.

Desiring Information.

Chief Engineer Crow, of Allegheny, yesterday received a letter from one of the officials of Frankfort-on-the-Main, stating that he had heard that the Allegheny Fire Department was a model one, and he desired a description of the organization and management of the department, and all facts concerning it, with a copy of the last annual report of the department. Chief Crow will send the desired information today.

To Those Who Have Under Contemplation the Purchase of a First-Class Piano.

That "Steck" Pianos can be purchased on easy monthly or quarterly payments is now an assured fact. Heretofore it has been an impossibility to secure a first-class piano on terms above mentioned. Cheap, trashy pianos have always been offered and sold in this place, and at prices touching, and in some instances exceeding, the price asked for a first-class "Steck," which took the first Gold Medal over all competitors at the Vienna Exposition. Our townsman, John Zweidinger, 136 Smithfield street, who controls the agency for East Ohio, West Virginia and West Pennsylvania, has made arrangements whereby he can sell these unexcelled pianos on the easy system. Cheap pianos are made for speculation and not for durability, as a great many are finding out to their sorrow, and now would gladly make a heavy sacrifice to have their "shoddy pianos" exchanged for a "Steck." Zweidinger's was established in 1856, and by close attention to business, and being a practical musician, always having first-class goods and selling at the smallest living profits, he has commanded the largest and best trade west of New York. A large and varied stock of "Jubilee" organs on hand, which are first-class in every respect; new style cases, new stops and new effects. Sold on easy monthly payments to suit purchasers. Remember—John Zweidinger, 136 Smithfield street.

THAT BIG EJECTMENT SUIT.

The Smoky Island Case Again Taken Up—The Defense Opens—What was Elicited.

In the Common Pleas Court No. 2, yesterday, before Judge White, the case of J. K. Moorhead et al. vs. the City of Allegheny et al. was resumed, City Solicitor Rogers opening the defense. He said that in 1783 the State owned all this Western territory, and in that year an act was passed for the sale of the land, some 3,000 acres being reserved. These 3,000 acres extended back about a mile and ran up and down the river some four or five miles, Federal street being about the central point. Subsequently the Colonial Legislature appointed a commission to lay out Allegheny in town lots. The commission performed their work, reserving 100 acres for common pasturage. They laid out lots for building purposes, and also lots of four or five acres each. These lots were sold at Philadelphia—the river front lots bringing higher prices than those further back. It was not denied that there was an island there. In 1806, when Kilbuck made his application, there were but twenty acres. Subsequently, when it was surveyed, it contained but seventeen acres. It was washed away gradually, each year, until in 1840 there was nothing there but a sand bar.

At the conclusion of the address a number of maps, plots, &c., were offered in evidence, after which the examination of witnesses was begun.

Charles Davis, City Engineer of Allegheny, was called first, who testified that Bank Lane was suffered to extend to the water front. He said that the patent for the island took in an area of 300 feet beyond the north pier of the Union bridge. That would leave only about 750 feet of channel in the Allegheny river, and about 750 feet in the Ohio. The city of Allegheny had made wharf improvements on the river front.

Mr. G. L. Snodgrass, a man sixty years of age, took the witness stand, and said he recollected Kilbuck Island as lying nearly opposite Snowden street. He thought it only contained about ten acres in early days, according to the best of his recollection. The head of the island was abrupt and the space between it and the shore varied from two to three hundred feet. When the water was very high, the space between the island and the shore was flooded. When the water was at an ordinary stage, he could walk from the main land to the island and had often done so. He had never known any persons to navigate the channel between the island and the shore.

The next witness called was Morrison Foster, who testified that he was acquainted with the location of the streets on the island. He also gave a description of the property and stated the effect of the flood in 1832 upon the same.

J. S. Africa, of the office of Internal Affairs, at Harrisburg, was called and stated that he had made a thorough search for the application of Henry Kilbuck, for the island in question. He said no record of any survey could be found, except that of one Reed. No account of any purchase money paid by Henry Kilbuck could be discovered. On cross-examination the witness stated that in the examination, search had not been made to ascertain whether or not the island had been awarded to Kilbuck for services rendered the State or for military distinction. He also stated that no investigation had been made as to the action of the Board of Property on this question.

Arthur Hobson took the witness stand and said he remembered Kilbuck Island quite well as far back as 1820. He said it was the lower island, and contained at that time seventy or eighty acres. It was noted for catching drift wood in large quantities, and it took about eighteen feet of water in the channel to overflow it. Nelson's Island was about six feet lower, but it had a high spot of ground in it, on which a saw mill now stands. The stream which ran around the islands was called Block House Run. There was no trouble to get over there on the Fourth of July at any time. The streams at this season of the year would be dried up.

The witness was not cross-examined.

This closed the testimony for the day, the time for the adjournment of Court having arrived. As the Court rooms will be occupied by the various conventions to-day, Judge White decided not to hold Court again before to-morrow morning, when the testimony for the defense will be resumed.

AMUSEMENTS.

Pittsburgh Opera House.

N. B. Roberts' Jack and Jill Pantomime Troupe commenced a week's engagement last night and opened to a very good house, and as those who were there last night will tell their friends of the excellence of the entertainment, which is one of unusual variety, a much better house may confidently be anticipated to-night. Pantomime is of course, the leading feature, but it does not occupy more than half the evening, the specialties which are interspersed throughout the whole performance, taking the balance of the time and adding considerably in point of attractiveness as well as relieving from monotony. The company is a large one, and exclusive of the pantomimists comprises the wonderful Vaidis children whose gymnastic feats are astonishing, when their tender age is considered; also the Langli's Brothers, Egyptian Jugglers, lady velocipedists and others. The performances of the Jee brothers, Harry and William, with their musical rocks and bells, are entirely new, and elicited warm applause last night. The combination is just what it advertises itself to be, a very superior one, and as such entertainments as it gives are quite popular in Pittsburgh, a prediction that it will get a full share of patronage would doubtless be realized.

Strawberry Festival.

The ice cream and strawberry festival which opened last night at the First Cumberland Presbyterian church, on Sixth avenue, between Wood and Smithfield streets, is one of the most delightful and enjoyable church affairs of the season, and deserves to be liberally patronized. There are plenty of fair young ladies in pretty white Normandy caps to do the honors of the occasion and see that all who attend are made to feel at home and supplied with plenty of frozen cream or luscious berries. The fair continues to-night only, and the lecture room of the church should be crowded.

Pennsylvania Female College.

The annual examinations at this institution will conclude to-day, and to-morrow Rev. James J. Brownson will deliver the annual address in the First Presbyterian church, East Liberty. The commencement exercises will be held on Thursday afternoon in the College chapel.

Church Home Festival.

On Thursday afternoon, at the Church Home, corner of Fortieth street and Penn avenue, a festival will be held, commencing at 3 o'clock and ending at 10 P. M. Admission 25 cents and supper 75 cents.

DEATH FROM HEART DISEASE.

A Man Drops Dead While at Work.

Yesterday afternoon about one o'clock a man named Lawrence Degan was engaged with a number of others in scraping and cleaning Penn avenue, when he fell to the ground a corpse. He had not complained of feeling sick, and his sudden death was a great surprise to the workmen. The Coroner was notified, who sent for the body, which was taken to Williams' undertaking rooms on Fifth avenue, where an inquest was held, and a verdict in accordance with the facts, as stated, was rendered. The deceased was sixty years of age, and lived on the hillside above the railroad, in the Twelfth ward. He leaves two children in destitute circumstances, their mother being dead. 'Squire Barker took charge of the little orphans, the older of whom is only about ten, and he will see that they are cared for until some action is taken by the Poor Board in reference to them. The remains of the father had to be buried at the expense of the county, as there was no one to take charge of them.

Little Girl Hurt.

On Saturday afternoon a little eight-year old daughter of Mr. John Ogden, of Allegheny, sustained a severe injury. She was on the top of a fence, in the yard in the rear of the residence of Mr. Thomas Brown, on Linden street, fixing a swing, when she lost her footing and fell to the ground. A piece of gas pipe which was sticking in the ground penetrated her neck, below the left ear, and tore a large gash up the neck to the ear. She was carried to her home No. 8 Knoll street, and Dr. Hamilton summoned. The injury, although severe, is not of a serious nature.

Allegheny County Literary Association.

A meeting of the Allegheny County Literary Association will be held in Select Council chamber, Pittsburgh, on Tuesday evening, June 29, 1875. This association is composed of delegates from all the Literary Societies in the county, organized under the plan agreed upon at the late convention. The meeting is called for the purpose of completing the organization and electing a Secretary and Treasurer, which offices were not filled at the last meeting.

McIlwaine's Auction House.

A notice published in several of the city papers to the effect that the auction business and stock sales conducted by the late Alex. McIlwaine had been disposed of is entirely erroneous, and injurious to the interests of his family.

I desire to contradict the statement and to give notice that the business will be conducted as heretofore.

AMELIA L. MCILWAINE,
Widow of Alex. McIlwaine.

As Good as New.

The above expression is peculiarly applicable to the individual whose system has been renovated by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters. If any man or woman in this community has a friend suffering from the various pangs which indigestion, nervous disease, weak back or kidney trouble can inflict, the most rational advice he or she can give is—"Procure the Bitters at once, and use them regularly." If this advice is heeded, we guarantee that in a short time the invalid will feel "as good as new," so marked and so rapid will be the change for the better wrought by this peerless invigorant, nervine and diuretic. It not only re-establishes indigestion and stimulates the organs of urination into healthful activity, but expels by the natural outlets of the body those acrid elements in the secretion which, when absorbed into the blood, produce rheumatism, gout and neuralgia. Moreover, its gentle though effectual action admirably fits it for the use of females in delicate health, who require a tonic stimulant and corrective.
